Township rejects police services tax

In a special Wheeling Township meeting Tuesday night, residents refused to authorize the township to contract with Sheriff's police for extra patrols in unincorporated areas.

Residents turned down, 32 to 11, a proposal to allow establishment of a special taxing district to pay for additional police services.

As a result, Richard Wolf, president of the Prospect Heights Improvement Assn., (PHIA), proponents of the plan, said it will petition the Cook County Board once again to set up its patrols in the area.

PREVIOUSLY, the Sheriff's department told the PHIA it could not meet its request for extra police because of budgetary restraints.

At the session, Wolf said police protection in Prospect Heights is inadequate to cope with crime rates, leaving little time for "preventive police protection."

But objectors, mostly from township areas other than Prospect Heights, said they did not believe they needed additional patrols and did not want to be subjected to the tax.

They also protested because they were not included in a recent poll, the results of which favored the PHIA pursuit of the contract.

"IT'S STILL your problem," Adeline Gaynor, 2000 Fernandez told Wolf. "We have enough taxes; we're taxed up to here."

Others said only Prospect Heights would benefit from the plan, because the two proposed additional police patrols would not be able to cover the entire unincorporated township in one eight-hour shift.

Wolf said at the time of the survey, the PHIA restricted the poll to 2,200 households in Prospect Heights, because the PHIA hopes to include only the proposed incorporation area, about 13,000 residents, in the tax district.

But the PHIA later learned the district, if created, would apply to all unincorporated areas of the township, not just Prospect Heights.

By law, the township is empowered to levy up to 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation to contract for police services, said Richard Gowen, township attorney.

Thieves get jewels in home burglary

About $680 worth of jewelry and other items were reported stolen Tuesday in a burglary at the Rufus Schofield home, 302 S. Patton Ave., Arlington Heights.

Reported taken were a camera, tape recorder, rings, including two diamond rings, lipstick, gum, candy and bottles of perfume.

Burglars gained entry through a window, police said.

In an apparently unrelated break-in, burglars took about $320 cash from The Young Elite Children's Store, 32 S. Evergreen Ave., police were told Tuesday.

Entry was gained by prying open a rear door, police said.

100 expected to take police test

More than 100 persons are expected to compete Sept. 17 for jobs in the Arlington Heights Police Dept.

Police testing will be conducted for the first time in 1½ years. Greg Ford, village personnel director, said Tuesday that 70 applicants have signed up to take the test, though police have only one vacancy open.

Ford said he expects the number of aspiring police officers, male and female, could top 100 by the deadline for applications at 5 p.m. Sept. 12.

"We'LL BE USING this test to fill future vacancies that may arise in the department because of promotions or resignations," Ford said.

Salary for an Arlington Heights police officer ranges from $11,072 to $16,349. Applicants must be at least 21 years old by May 1, 1976, and not over 35 years old to be eligible.

The written test will be given at 7:30 p.m., Sept. 17, in Room 42-44, Arlington High School, 502 W. Euclid Ave. Applications to take the test and information on other prerequisites are available from the village personnel office on the second floor of the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

Ford, who is directing the test for the board of fire and police commissioners, said the written exam is just the first step in applying for a police officer's job.

PERSONS WHO PASS the written exam will be given a physical agility test, a medical examination and personal interviews, he said. The scores from all the tests are then combined for a final eligibility list.

Names on the eligibility list are the first considered when vacancies arise on the police force. The list is updated periodically. It was last compiled in February 1974, Ford said.

Qualifications for police officer include requirements that the applicant:

- Must be free of any physical or mental defects, deformities or diseases that might prevent him from performing his or her duties.
- Be at least 5 feet 5 inches tall with weight commensurate with height.
- Have at least 20/30 vision in one eye and 20/50 in the other corrected to 20/20 with glasses; or 20/40 in both eyes corrected to 20/20 with glasses.
- Be of good character, and must not have been convicted of any crimes or guilty of "infamous or notoriously disgraceful" conduct.
- Must be a high school graduate, or the equivalent thereof.

Four Rolling Meadows families and another from Arlington Heights paid a Streamwood contractor thousands of dollars for room additions to their homes but now say the contractor no longer is in business.

At least one family is without plumbing and hating because they say Spacious Living Inc. — a firm specializing in raising houses above ground level while making improvements — abandoned the project.

Attorney Arthur Newell representing the families said a lawsuit will be filed in Circuit Court this week seeking payment for damages by the firm.

NEWELL SAID all five families contracted with Spacious Lving, acting as general contractor, to raise their houses and remodel the new floor, including the installation of heating, plumbing and central air conditioning, at costs ranging from $10,000 to $16,000.

The contracts, he said, called for payments to be made on a schedule of 40 per cent down, 40 per cent after concrete flooring was poured and the remaining 20 per cent due after the rest of the job, or a majority of the work, was completed. All payments were to go directly to Spacious Living, which then hired subcontractors, he said.

About three weeks ago, the families were notified the subcontractors were placing liens against their homes because they had not been paid by Spacious Living.

Newell estimates the damages at this point at about $40,000, with the Tony Ramirez family, 1721 N. Clarence Ave., Arlington Heights, the worst off.

THE COUPLE and their three children are without plumbing and heating.

Other families, like the Russell Shortts, 2810 Cardinal Dr., Rolling Meadows, whose home is about half-finished, are a little more fortunate. They estimate, however, the remodeling work, which originally was to cost them about $18,000, will be a $24,000 job before everything is done. Part of their additional expenses will be to redo some of the work by Spacious Living subcontractors, which failed to meet city building codes, they said.

8% teacher pay hike costs $267,000

Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education Tuesday night approved an 8 per cent teachers' salary increase and $15.5 million budget for the 1975-76 school year.

The new one-year contract calls for a 4 per cent cost-of-living raise plus a 4 per cent raise for an additional year of experience in the district. The base pay will be $9,500 for a teacher with no experience and the maximum salary will be $20,000. The salary package will cost the district $267,000 this year.

The board approved the contract on a 5-1 vote, with Emil Bahnmaier voting against it. "I'm voting against it on the basis that it is greater than necessary," he said. Board member Erwin Poklacki was absent.

Board member Avis Wold said she supported the contract "with extreme reluctance."

TEACHERS APPROVED the contract Monday night, although Alma Parrish, teachers' union president, said "we got the minimum of anything we could get. This is the lowest salary we have settled for in at least four years." She said she also is dissatisfied with the reduction in force clause added to this year's contract, because it is inadequate.

The board unanimously approved this year's budget which shows a 2.2 per cent increase over last year's $15.2 million budget. It also reflects a $358,000 decrease in expenditures from the $15.9 million tentative budget presented in July.

The district anticipates $14 million from property taxes, state aid and other sources this year. Surplus funds from last year will not cover the anticipated deficit. A $1.2 million deficit is expected in the education and building funds by the end of the school year.

The deficit will result despite cuts of more than $600,000 in these two funds from the original tentative budget. The budget also does not include salary increases for this year.

THE EDUCATION fund is budgeted for $11 million this year compared with $10.8 million last year. This included cuts of about $520,000 from the tentative budget's $11.4 million education fund and additional expenses of about $1 million.

The building fund is budgeted for $1.3 million compared with $1.4 million last year, reflecting cuts of about $42,000 from the tentative budget.

Experts called to stop outbreak of encephalitis

The Illinois Dept. of Public Health said Tuesday it has summoned experts from the Center for Disease Control in Fort Collins, Colo., to help put Illinois' mounting encephalitis outbreak in check.

The department added seven new confirmed or suspected cases of potentially fatal St. Louis encephalitis, bringing to 90 the number of cases reported statewide in the past month.

The CDC experts were expected to arrive today, a department spokesman said, to begin testing, collecting and classifying birds and mosquitos in the area. She said a team of six to eight persons was expected.

The Northwest suburbs remain apparently free of the disease, with area hospitals reporting no cases. The significance of one suspected case reported Monday in a Morton Grove woman was being downplayed by hospital officials.

Officials at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge said the 50-year-old woman had ben in the hospital with County hunting parking violators

The County Sheriff's office deputized a special task force of Chicago policemen to hunt down some 30,000 suburbanites who have ignored city parking tickets, Police Supt. James Rochford said Tuesday. Rochford said the crackdown began Tuesday when Presiding Traffic Court Judge Richard Lefevour issued 100 arrest warrants to be served by the newly deputized officers. The warrants were issued for persons with three or more outstanding tickets. County Sheriff Richard Elrod said 48 Chicago policemen had been deputized, but he was not certain how many of them were assigned to the traffic detail.

Towns step up mosquito spraying

Two more communities in the Northwest suburbs have begun intensive mosquito spraying programs in an attempt to help check the statewide encephalitis epidemic. Des Plaines public works crews will be spraying in the areas of Weller, Willow and Higgins creeks in the next several days, Joseph J. Schwab, commissioner of public works said Tuesday. Although the city is doing the work, Schwab said, it is using equipment supplied by the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District. Elk Grove Village employes also began spraying Tuesday to supplement efforts of the abatement district. Jack Andrews, public works superintendent, said more than 80 per cent of the village had received one spraying by Tuesday night, and the second application is scheduled to begin immediately after completion of the first. Encephalitis is carried by mosquitos, which pick up the potentially fatal virus from birds infected with the disease.

Elk Grove teachers get pay hike

The Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education Tuesday approved an 8 per cent teachers' salary increase and a $15.5 million budget for the 1975-76 school year. The new one-year contract calls for a 4 per cent cost-of-living raise plus an additional 4 per cent raise for an additional year of experience in the district. Hockey group wants referendum

The Palatine Amateur Hockey Assn. is seeking 1,500 signatures on a petition which asks for a second referendum on the proposed purchase of the Arlington Ice Spectrum by the Palatine Park District. Bruce Anderson, association president, Tuesday said the petitions will be circulated beginning this week. Association members will take the petitions door-to-door, he said, and they will be presented to the park board within a month. A $695,000 general-obligation bond referendum June 2 asking the district purchase the Spectrum, 647 Consumers Ave., Palatine, was defeated. The hockey association has used the Spectrum for practices and games during the last two years, and Anderson said it will rent the rink for the 1975-76 season for its traveling teams and house leagues.

7 more possible encephalitis cases reported

another disease for the past month. A blood test last week found the encephalitis virus in the woman's blood, even though she had shown no symptoms, hospital officials said.

THE PRESENCE OF the virus may mean the woman had an undetected case of encephalitis sometime in the past, hospital officials said.

The one additional confirmed case of encephalitis was in Madison County near St. Louis, state health department officials said. One additional probable case and one suspected case are in Cook County, both in south suburban Blue Island. The total number of cases in the county is 63.

One of the new probable cases and one of the new suspected cases are in Joliet, state officials said. Other new cases include a probable case in Madison county and a suspected case in Kankakee.

Health officials classify a case as "suspected" when a person has symptoms of the disease, but no blood tests have been run. A case is upgraded to "probable" after the first of several laboratory tests turn out "positive." It takes at least two tests, performed at 10-day intervals, to confirm a diagnosis of the disease.

THE ENCEPHALITIS, called the St. Louis strain, is carried by birds and passed from birds to man by the northern house mosquito. Doctors say the disease may cause no symptoms or may result in serious illness or death. Three deaths have been reported in the state since the current outbreak began in southern Illinois Aug. 7.

Symptoms of the disease are high fever, headache, dizziness, stiffness in the back of the neck, lethargy, confusion, poor muscular coordination and difficulty with speech. Doctors said as many as 90 per cent of the persons who contract the disease will have no symptoms.

In serious cases, the patient may lapse into a coma and suffer from some brain damage, which may or may not go away when the disease clears up, doctors said.

Mosquito eradication programs are continuing throughout the county and state as officials try to eliminate both mosquito larva and adult mosquitos. Health officials cautioned persons to avoid wooded areas where mosquitos are and to eliminate standing pools of water which provide breeding grounds for the insect.

Death toll far below estimate during holiday

National and state traffic death tolls for the Labor Day weekend were far fewer than estimates, totals released Monday show.

Illinois had a record low 16 traffic fatalities over the three-day weekend, three less than in 1974. National tallies showed 390 persons dead. The National Safety Council had estimated 460 to 560 pesons would die. Last year's figures showed 602 persons dead from traffic accidents over the Labor Day weekend.

A United Press International count also showed 56 drownings, 29 persons killed in plane crashes and 47 dead in other accidents — an over-all accidental death count of 522 between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Monday.

A spokesman for the council said the death total was "undoubtedly the best ever" based on miles traveled in the nation. The spokesman said the reason for the decrease in deaths is unknown, but it will be studied. "We do know the decrease was nationwide," he said.

Computer Check

Once in a while a Landwehr's Home Appliances customer will bring in an electronic calculator for service. Because we do most other electronic servicing — TVs, radios and sound equipment, customers assume we service these computers, too.

Actually because of the time and special equipment needed for this kind of repair, it doesn't pay to service them. Buying a new one would cost less than the service charge. Or, if you have a guarantee, send it back to the manufacturer.

Here is a good way to check them for accuracy. Multiply 32159 by 464. If it's accurate, you should get two important dates in American history as an answer.

The County Sheriff's office deputized a special task force of Chicago policemen to hunt down some 30,000 suburbanites who have ignored city parking tickets, Police Supt. James Rochford said Tuesday. Rochford said the crackdown began Tuesday when Presiding Traffic Court Judge Richard Lefevour issued 100 arrest warrants to be served by the newly deputized officers. The warrants were issued for persons with three or more outstanding tickets. County Sheriff Richard Elrod said 48 Chicago policemen had been deputized, but he was not certain how many of them were assigned to the traffic detail.

Towns step up mosquito spraying

Two more communities in the Northwest suburbs have begun intensive mosquito spraying programs in an attempt to help check the statewide encephalitis epidemic. Des Plaines public works crews will be spraying in the areas of Weller, Willow and Higgins creeks in the next several days, Joseph J. Schwab, commissioner of public works said Tuesday. Although the city is doing the work, Schwab said, it is using equipment supplied by the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District. Elk Grove Village employes also began spraying Tuesday to supplement efforts of the abatement district. Jack Andrews, public works superintendent, said more than 80 per cent of the village had received one spraying by Tuesday night, and the second application is scheduled to begin immediately after completion of the first. Encephalitis is carried by mosquitos, which pick up the potentially fatal virus from birds infected with the disease.

Elk Grove teachers get pay hike

The Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education Tuesday approved an 8 per cent teachers' salary increase and a $15.5 million budget for the 1975-76 school year. The new one-year contract calls for a 4 per cent cost-of-living raise plus an additional 4 per cent raise for an additional year of experience in the district. The base pay will be $9,500 for a teacher with experience and the maximum salary will be $20,000. The board unanimously approved this year's budget which shows a 2.2 per cent increase over last year's $15.2-million budget. It also reflects a $358,000 decrease in expenditures from the $15.9-million tentative budget presented in July.

Hockey group wants referendum

The Palatine Amateur Hockey Assn. is seeking 1,500 signatures on a petition which asks for a second referendum on the proposed purchase of the Arlington Ice Spectrum by the Palatine Park District. Bruce Anderson, association president, Tuesday said the petitions will be circulated beginning this week. Association members will take the petitions door-to-door, he said, and they will be presented to the park board within a month. A $695,000 general-obligation bond referendum June 2 asking the district purchase the Spectrum, 647 Consumers Ave., Palatine, was defeated. The hockey association has used the Spectrum for practices and games during the last two years, and Anderson said it will rent the rink for the 1975-76 season for its traveling teams and house leagues.

7 more possible encephalitis cases reported

another disease for the past month. A blood test last week found the encephalitis virus in the woman's blood, even though she had shown no symptoms, hospital officials said.

THE PRESENCE OF the virus may mean the woman had an undetected case of encephalitis sometime in the past, hospital officials said.

The one additional confirmed case of encephalitis was in Madison County near St. Louis, state health department officials said. One additional probable case and one suspected case are in Cook County, both in south suburban Blue Island. The total number of cases in the county is 63.

One of the new probable cases and one of the new suspected cases are in Joliet, state officials said. Other new cases include a probable case in Madison county and a suspected case in Kankakee.

Health officials classify a case as "suspected" when a person has symptoms of the disease, but no blood tests have been run. A case is upgraded to "probable" after the first of several laboratory tests turn out "positive." It takes at least two tests, performed at 10-day intervals, to confirm a diagnosis of the disease.

THE ENCEPHALITIS, called the St. Louis strain, is carried by birds and passed from birds to man by the northern house mosquito. Doctors say the disease may cause no symptoms or may result in serious illness or death. Three deaths have been reported in the state since the current outbreak began in southern Illinois Aug. 7.

Symptoms of the disease are high fever, headache, dizziness, stiffness in the back of the neck, lethargy, confusion, poor muscular coordination and difficulty with speech. Doctors said as many as 90 per cent of the persons who contract the disease will have no symptoms.

In serious cases, the patient may lapse into a coma and suffer from some brain damage, which may or may not go away when the disease clears up, doctors said.

Mosquito eradication programs are continuing throughout the county and state as officials trv to eliminate both mosquito larva and adult mosquitos. Health officials cautioned persons to avoid wooded areas where mosquitos are and to eliminate standing pools of water which provide breeding grounds for the insect.

Death toll far below estimate during holiday

National and state traffic death tolls for the Labor Day weekend were far fewer than estimates, totals released Monday show.

Illinois had a record low 16 traffic fatalities over the three-day weekend, three less than in 1974. National tallies showed 390 persons dead. The National Safety Council had estimated 460 to 560 pesons would die. Last year's figures showed 602 persons dead from traffic accidents over the Labor Day weekend.

A United Press International count also showed 56 drownings, 29 persons killed in plane crashes and 47 dead in other accidents — an over-all accidental death count of 522 between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Monday.

A spokesman for the council said the death total was "undoubtedly the best ever" based on miles traveled in the nation. The spokesman said the reason for the decrease in deaths is unknown, but it will be studied."We do know the decrease was nationwide," he said.

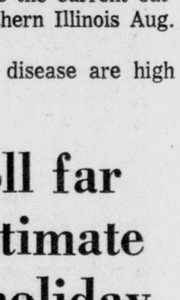
Computer Check



by Ed Landwehr

Once in a while a Landwehr's Home Appliances customer will bring in an electronic calculator for service. Because we do most other electronic servicing — TVs, radios and sound equipment, customers assume we service these computers, too.

Actually because of the time and special equipment needed for this kind of repair, it doesn't pay to service them. Buying a new one would cost less than the service charge. Or, if you have a guarantee, send it back to the manufacturer.

Here is a good way to check them for accuracy. Multiply 32159 by 464. If it's accurate, you should get two important dates in American history as an answer.

255-0700 is another important number to check for prompt home television service. Try us and you'll like us.

1000 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, is the place you can drop off your TV set and radio for fast service. And while you're here, look over some fine displays of nationally-advertised sets.

YASSER ARAFAT, Palestine Liberation Organization leader, wants stepped up guerrilla strikes against Israel to undermine the Sinai peace pact. He wants to move against imperialism, Zionism and America.

Israeli planes attack in Lebanon

Saudi Arabia backs peace accord

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — A joyful Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger Tuesday won Saudi Arabian approval of his new Israel-Egypt peace pact and flew to Jordan to do the same with an unhappy King Hussein.

A senior U.S. official aboard Kissinger's plane said the endorsement from Saudi Arabia's King Khaled at Taif earlier in the day was of extreme importance.

Kissinger had been worried that the oil-rich state, a political as well as a financial power in the Arab world, would spurn the interim peace settlement the secretary worked out between Israel and Cairo.

Kissinger, seeking Hussein's support, faced the problem of the monarch's anger over the refusal of the U.S. Congress to sell him Hawk missiles.

The Ford administration, opposed by the Israeli lobby, was trying for Congressional approval again this month and the outlook was much in doubt.

But Kissinger in Taif savored the joy of the moment when Foreign Minister Saudi Faisal said in a public farewell speech that the Israeli-Egyptian pact was indeed an important step toward a final settlement of the Palestinian — diplomats say he meant Arab-Israeli — problem.

As Kissinger was on his one-day whirlwind tour of Arab states, Israel reported its war-planes attacked a suspected Arab guerrilla base in southern Lebanon in the fourth strike in less than a month in apparent retaliation for attempted guerrilla strikes against Israeli.

Beirut also reported an exchange of artillery fire across the border.

Palestinian guerrilla leaders have denounced the Egyptian-Israeli interim peace agreement and warned of stepped up raids in an effort to torpedo the accord worked out by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

The Israeli military command said the planes struck briefly at a guerrilla encampment in the southeastern corner of Lebanon in the western foothills of Mount Hermon. Arab gunners earlier in the day fired several shells into Israeli territory from there but caused neither casualties or damages.

On Sunday two guerrillas were surprised by an Israeli patrol infiltrating from Lebanon and killed. Two Israeli soldiers were wounded.

Arab reporters said eight Israeli Phantom fighter-bombers flashed across the border and attacked the area around Abu Kamha. They said the raid lasted 20 minutes and started fires in the orange groves near the village in the southern Hasbaya region.

In other Israel-Egyptian interim peace settlement news:

• President Ford said he is optimistic Congress will vote to station U.S. civilian monitors in the Sinai Desert as part of the new agreement.

• Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said the United States entered into "secret understandings" with Cairo in working out the interim Israeli-Egyptian agreement. He said Kissinger should be called to testify about the Mideast accord before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

• Israeli officials will fly to Geneva to sign the interim peace agreement with Egypt on Thursday, government officials said Tuesday.

In reaction to the peace pact, France and Japan hailed it as a major breakthrough on the path to possible permanent peace between Arabs and Israelis.

The official Soviet news agency Tass did not comment directly on the agreement, but it carried negative comments from foreign newspapers indicating the Soviets were opposed.

Threatened railroad strike postponed by Ford's action

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford appointed an emergency review panel Tuesday, postponing a threatened strike by 85,000 railroad shop craft employes.

The shop craft employes had threatened to strike at midnight tonight. The strike probably would have halted commuter service on the Chicago and North Western Ry., a company spokesman said.

Ford acted at the request of the National Mediation Board, which advised him that the dispute could not be resolved prior to the strike deadline.

The board has 30 days in which to report its findings. Both sides must then consider the report and try to resolve their differences during a subsequent 30-day period.

Ford named Charles M. Rehmus, co-director of the Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations at the University of Michigan, as chairman of the emergency panel. Named as members were Harold Weston, a New York City attorney and labor arbitrator, and Dana E. Eischen, labor arbitrator from Liverpool, N. Y.

Although the shop craft unions have accepted a wage offer from the railroads, the dispute involves work and safety rules.

The majority of the nation's railroad workers have settled on a new contract, but a walkout by the shop crafts could nonetheless shut down the railroads.

The dispute involves the National Railway Labor Conference and the Railway Employes' Department, AFL-CIO, International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Ironshipbuilders, Blacksmiths, Forgers and Helpers, Brother Railway Carmen of the United States and Canada; International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the International Brotherhood of Firemen and oilers.

Chicago teachers on strike today

by United Press International

Members of the Chicago Teachers Union voted overwhelmingly Tuesday to strike the city's public schools Wednesday where classes were scheduled to begin for a half-million students.

Union President Robert Healey said the vote was 21,439 in favor of a strike and 2,537 against — a mandate bigger than in 1969, 1972 and 1973, the three years in which the teachers have gone on strike.

In an effort to avert a walkout, Chicago Schools Supt. Joseph Hannon phoned Healey late Monday and the two scheduled a bargaining session for Wednesday.

However, Healey and other leaders of the 26,744-member union recommended that plans for a strike continue. The union rejected the latest offer from the Chicago Board of Education during the weekend — that 1,525 teaching positions be retained and classes maintained at present sizes if the union would continue to negotiate without striking.

Chicago Mayor Richard Daley offered to mediate the dispute, but noted that neither "side to this controversy" had asked for his help.

Hannon said to have someone else step in and mediate would reduce his effectiveness as superintendent.

Teachers were assured that if they went on strike they would have the support of the school system's Building Service Employes Union, Operating Engineers and the Firemen and Oilers Union. President John Miller of the operating engineers union said he would ask members of his union to keep all buildings locked except to watchmen and a single operating engineer.

Chicago School Principals Association leaders directed all principals to report for work on schedule Wednesday — as they have during past teachers strikes.

Other strike votes were conducted in Elgin, DuQuoin and Elverado. Strike votes were scheduled for Wednesday in the Chicago suburbs of Blue Island and Sauk Village.

Belvidere school teachers agreed to go back to classes on Wednesday, although their six-day-old strike remains unsettled. The Belvidere School Board went to court seeking an injunction to halt the strike by 270 teachers, but a Boone County Circuit Court Judge told both sides to go back to the bargaining table in good faith. The teachers said they also would go back to the classes as a further show of good faith.

In Urbana, however, no talks were held and union leaders charged that school board members had refused to negotiate.

The Illinois Education Association said 185 of its locals had yet to reach agreements on new contracts and called the situation involving 30 of the locals "critical."

Talks between negotiators for striking faculty members and the Chicago City Colleges broke off an hour after they resumed. City Colleges Chancellor Oscar Shabat said the City College system could lose $10.5 million in state aid if teachers fail to return to classes within the next few days so the colleges could meet the minimum requirement of 75 days per trimester.

Cook County Circuit Court Judge L. Sheldon Brown ordered all 1,250 members of the Cook County College Teachers Union be added as defenants in court proceedings to force the faculty to work. Brown issued further hearings on possible contempt charges against seven union officials, who urged teachers to ignore an earlier back-to-work order.

U.S. announces $5 million Angola airlift

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department Tuesday announced a $5 million commercial airlift from Angola in Africa to Portugal to evacuate all those who want to leave before the former Portuguese territory becomes independent Nov. 15.

A spokesman said Portuguese President Francisco Da Costa Gomes has appealed to the United States and other countries — including the Soviet Union and East Germany — to help fly out whites and blacks who wish to leave.

Some 270,000 persons are reported involved.

Two commercially chartered American Boeing 707s or DC8s or similar type aircraft, manned by civilians, will carry out the U.S. part of the airlift expected to start within three days.

The spokesman said that using the two aircraft in each direction between Angola and Portugal would allow a daily evacuation of from 180 to 200 persons and that it was hoped the operation would be completed by Nov. 15 when Angola becomes independent.

The airlift would cost an estimated $5 million which would come from Aid and Disaster funds. In addition, the State Department has made available $200,000 in other relief assistance through the Red Cross and is prepared to furnish more, the spokesman said.

Although the airlift operation technically would be under the U.S. Military Air Command, only civilians would be involved, the spokesman said.

In Lisbon meanwhile, Gomes publicly rebuked the commander of the air force for criticizing the nomination of a pro-Communist as chief of the Portuguese armed forces. But he hinted that the nomination might not go through.

The development came as defiant air force and army officers met outside Lisbon to discuss ways of ousting the military's pro-Communist faction from power.

Gomes ordered air force chief Gen. Jose Morais da Silva to explain why he called for the removal of Communist-backed Gen. Vasco Goncalves from the post.

A presidential statement said da Silva's attack on Goncalves "is likely to create difficulties in carrying out decisions already taken."

Water crisis hits Trenton, N.J.

A filter plant breakdown that threatened to dry up the Trenton, N.J. municipal water supply Tuesday forced schools, government offices and industrial plants to close. Gov. Brendan T. Byrne declared a state of emergency. Trenton Mayor Arthur Holland, said the crisis could last for at least two days. Authorities prepared for the worst and worked to repair the filtration plant before the city's reservoir ran dry.

Grand jury begins Hoffa probe

A federal grand jury, trying to determine how and why James R. Hoffa disappeared more than a month ago, heard testimony Tuesday from two members of a reputed Mafia chieftain's family. The first of 70 scheduled witnesses was Joseph Giacalone, 22, son of reputed gangland enforcer Anthony "Tony Jack" Giacalone. He spent 33 minutes before the grand jury. He was followed by Vito Giacalone, a brother of Anthony and also described as a mob figure. Federal authorities refused to discuss what happened in the opening session.

• Former President Eamon de Valera, the founding father of the Irish Republic, was buried Tuesday in one of the most emotional farewells Ireland has seen. Hundreds of thousands lined a three-mile funeral route, openly weeping as the flag-draped coffin was borne past on an army gun carriage. Schools, offices, factories and shops were closed for the day in mourning. An American delegation, led by Labor Secretary John Dunlop and former House Speaker John McCormack, was the biggest single foreign group at the funeral. Army guns boomed out a 21-gun salute, reveille was sounded, and the crowds quietly left the cemetery.

Throngs of Vietnamese celebrate in Saigon, Hanoi

SAIGON (UPI) — Hundreds of thousands of Vietnamese marched through the streets of Saigon and Hanoi Tuesday to celebrate Ho Chi Minh's declaration of national independence 30 years ago.

It was the first time since Ho said on Sept. 2, 1945, that "nothing is more precious than independence and freedom" that Vietnam was at peace.

In Hanoi, Premier Pham Van Dong said North Vietnam was prepared to establish diplomatic relations with the United States, and he called on his country to help restore the battered economy of South Vietnam.

The parade in Saigon lasted so long it awed even its organizers.

"I really don't know how many people are marching," said a government official who had been watching people pass by him 15 abreast for two hours.

A final estimate was 250,000 — one of the largest demonstrations ever seen in Saigon.

Railroad workers mocked up a locomotive float and there were two bands, but mainly it was a parade of people — from peasants dressed in black pajamas to city women wearing flowery silk Ai Dai dresses.

Everyone seemed to be carrying a flag or a picture of Ho or one end of a banner welcoming peace, independence, and freedom — the rallying slogans of the government.

For three hours they passed a huge reviewing stand in front of the former Presidential Palace and a block from the old American Embassy. An honor guard of soldiers stood stiffly at attention the whole time.

Many of the marchers had been up all night and appeared tired. Torn shoes and sandals littered the streets.

There were also parades and celebrations in Hanoi, where the Vietnam News Agency reported that numerous foreign delegations visited the mausoleum containing Ho's glass-encased body.

In a speech, Premier Pham Van Dong said that North Vietnam was "establishing relations with all other countries on the principles of mutual respect for each other's independence and sovereignty, non-interference in each other's internal affairs, and equality and mutual benefit.

"In this spirit, the democratic Republic of Vietnam is ready to establish normal relation with the United States on the basis of the Paris Agreement," he said.

He said his country had the "obligation" to help repair the war-disrupted economy of South Vietnam, and even appealed to the capitalists for help.

"We also call on the national capitalists . . . to put all their talents and ardor into the service . . . of the country," Dong said.

Water crisis hits Trenton, N.J.

A filter plant breakdown that threatened to dry up the Trenton, N.J. municipal water supply Tuesday forced schools, government offices and industrial plants to close. Gov. Brendan T. Byrne declared a state of emergency. Trenton Mayor Arthur Holland, said the crisis could last for at least two days. Authorities prepared for the worst and worked to repair the filtration plant before the city's reservoir ran dry.

Grand jury begins Hoffa probe

A federal grand jury, trying to determine how and why James R. Hoffa disappeared more than a month ago, heard testimony Tuesday from two members of a reputed Mafia chieftain's family. The first of 70 scheduled witnesses was Joseph Giacalone, 22, son of reputed gangland enforcer Anthony "Tony Jack" Giacalone. He spent 33 minutes before the grand jury. He was followed by Vito Giacalone, a brother of Anthony and also described as a mob figure. Federal authorities refused to discuss what happened in the opening session.

Dock workers load Soviet grain

Dock workers Tuesday night resumed loading about 20,000 tons of grain aboard a tanker bound for Russia, an official of the International Longshoremen's Association said in New Orleans. A federal court, earlier in the day, ordered the ILA to load the ship.

N. Koreans seize Japanese fishing vessel

A North Korean patrol ship fired on a Japanese fishing vessel, then seized it in the northern Yellow Sea Tuesday, killing two of its nine crewmen and wounding two others, the Japanese Maritime Safety Agency reported. The Japanese foreign ministry said it would lodge a strong protest if it was confirmed the incident took place on the high seas.

Ecuador troops hunt coup leaders

President Guillermo Ridriguez Lara of Ecuador Tuesday sent loyalist soldiers to round up the leaders of the previous day's bloody 13-hour uprising against him. Others sought political asylum in foreign embassies. In the military uprising Monday the rebels under Gen. Raul Gonzalez managed to take the presidential palace briefly after fierce gunbattle involving tanks. But they were soon surrounded by troops loyal to Rodriguez Lara and surrendered.

U.S. announces $5 million Angola airlift

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department Tuesday announced a $5 million commercial airlift from Angola in Africa to Portugal to evacuate all those who want to leave before the former Portuguese territory becomes independent Nov. 15.

A spokesman said Portuguese President Francisco Da Costa Gomes has appealed to the United States and other countries — including the Soviet Union and East Germany — to help fly out whites and blacks who wish to leave.

Some 270,000 persons are reported involved.

Two commercially chartered American Boeing 707s or DC8s or similar type aircraft, manned by civilians, will carry out the U.S. part of the airlift expected to start within three days.

The spokesman said that using the two aircraft in each direction between Angola and Portugal would allow a daily evacuation of from 180 to 200 persons and that it was hoped the operation would be completed by Nov. 15 when Angola becomes independent.

The airlift would cost an estimated $5 million which would come from Aid and Disaster funds. In addition, the State Department has made available $200,000 in other relief assistance through the Red Cross and is prepared to furnish more, the spokesman said.

Although the airlift operation technically would be under the U.S. Military Air Command, only civilians would be involved, the spokesman said.

In Lisbon meanwhile, Gomes publicly rebuked the commander of the air force for criticizing the nomination of a pro-Communist as chief of the Portuguese armed forces. But he hinted that the nomination might not go through.

The development came as defiant air force and army officers met outside Lisbon to discuss ways of ousting the military's pro-Communist faction from power.

Gomes ordered air force chief Gen. Jose Morais da Silva to explain why he called for the removal of Communist-backed Gen. Vasco Goncalves from the post.

A presidential statement said da Silva's attack on Goncalves "is likely to create difficulties in carrying out decisions already taken."

De Valera, Ireland's founding father buried

People

• Former President Eamon de Valera, the founding father of the Irish Republic, was buried Tuesday in one of the most emotional farewells Ireland has seen. Hundreds of thousands lined a three-mile funeral route, openly weeping as the flag-draped coffin was borne past on an army gun carriage. Schools, offices, factories and shops were closed for the day in mourning. An American delegation, led by Labor Secretary John Dunlop and former House Speaker John McCormack, was the biggest single foreign group at the funeral. Army guns boomed out a 21-gun salute, reveille was sounded, and the crowds quietly left the cemetery.

• Sandy Allen was glad to be back home in Shelbyville, Ind. Tuesday. The world's tallest woman at 7-feet, 5 and 5/16 inches, played opposite Donald Sutherland in Fellini's "Casanova" in Rome. The picture was filmnaped, and it may be the end of her movie career, but Sandy admitted she was glad to be back safely and eat a good home cooked meal. In the movie, she played a gladiator giantress with whom Casonova falls in love.

• A six-foot boa constrictor, George, was missing from his owner Ronnie Pope's house at Minot Air Force Base in North Dakota. A friend of George said " everybody is getting into a big uproar," but there is nothing to worry about. He said George is really friendly.

• Age didn't deter Roy Webster, 74, from competing in the mile-long Columbia River swim that he imitaited 30 years ago. He joined 127 teenagers in the swim near Hood River, Ore. and finished in the middle of the pack. "I just wanted to show the kids a guy my age still can stay in shape and not finish last," Webster said.

Throngs of Vietnamese celebrate in Saigon, Hanoi

SAIGON (UPI) — Hundreds of thousands of Vietnamese marched through the streets of Saigon and Hanoi Tuesday to celebrate Ho Chi Minh's declaration of national independence 30 years ago.

It was the first time since Ho said on Sept. 2, 1945, that "nothing is more precious than independence and freedom" that Vietnam was at peace.

In Hanoi, Premier Pham Van Dong said North Vietnam was prepared to establish diplomatic relations with the United States, and he called on his country to help restore the battered economy of South Vietnam.

The parade in Saigon lasted so long it awed even its organizers.

"I really don't know how many people are marching," said a government official who had been watching people pass by him 15 abreast for two hours.

A final estimate was 250,000 — one of the largest demonstrations ever seen in Saigon.

Railroad workers mocked up a locomotive float and there were two bands, but mainly it was a parade of people — from peasants dressed in black pajamas to city women wearing flowery silk Ai Dai dresses.

Everyone seemed to be carrying a flag or a picture of Ho or one end of a banner welcoming peace, independence, and freedom — the rallying slogans of the government.

For three hours they passed a huge reviewing stand in front of the former Presidential Palace and a block from the old American Embassy. An honor guard of soldiers stood stiffly at attention the whole time.

Many of the marchers had been up all night and appeared tired. Torn shoes and sandals littered the streets.

There were also parades and celebrations in Hanoi, where the Vietnam News Agency reported that numerous foreign delegations visited the mausoleum containing Ho's glass-encased body.

In a speech, Premier Pham Van Dong said that North Vietnam was "establishing relations with all other countries on the principles of mutual respect for each other's independence and sovereignty, non-interference in each other's internal affairs, and equality and mutual benefit.

"In this spirit, the democratic Republic of Vietnam is ready to establish normal relation with the United States on the basis of the Paris Agreement," he said.

He said his country had the "obligation" to help repair the war-disrupted economy of South Vietnam, and even appealed to the capitalists for help.

"We also call on the national capitalists . . . to put all their talents and ardor into the service . . . of the country," Dong said.

Run it up the flagpole...

by LUISA GINNETTI

Friends of Michael Boldt take note. If you can't find his house at 1504 S. Plum Grove Rd., Schaumburg by using your local map, just look for the U. S. flag next to his mailbox.

The 9-year-old boy and his family moved to the village from Chicago in June, and Michael felt some of his friends might have difficulty finding the house. Michael said he felt displaying the flag as a landmark for his friends was an obvious answer to the problem.

Why a flag? Michael said it seemed like a logical move, because it would be easy to see. "I like to see the flag wave," he said.

A Cub Scout and fourth grader at Schaumburg Elementary School, Michael said he also likes to display the flag on holidays.

Michael's father Thomas said he thinks his son's idea is a good one.

"He took it upon himself, and I think it's very nice and different," Boldt said. "He's a very patriotic boy."

Red Horse Grill to gallop off into pages of history

by DIANE MERMIGAS

For 20 years, the Red Horse Grill has been a place where patrons served themselves and called each other by their first names. The walls are decorated with their tokens of appreciation.

But like many small restaurants which specialize in home cooking and smiles, the grill is being closed and replaced by something more commercially appropriate for the busy corner of Northwest Highway and Hicks Road in Palatine.

Marian Walman, owner, has lost the lease on the grill and says she is not looking forward to Oct. 1 when she will close the door on what has become a Palatine landmark.

LAWYERS, doctors, bankers, real estate brokers and members of the village's early families have sat at the U-shaped, formica counter or the few scattered tables, with red leatherback chairs.

The orders always have been "eggs over easy for Sam" or "a roast beef for Ernie just the way he likes it," said Mrs. Walman, whose specialty has become meatloaf and American fried potatoes.

She was a 22-year-old waitress working at the Red Horse Grill and only had $75 to her name when the owners were forced to sell and asked her to buy the restaurant.

"The place was practically brand new when the owners asked me to buy it from them, because they couldn't handle it anymore. I didn't know how to cook, but they had so much confidence in me that I had to buy it," Mrs. Walmans aid.

Since then, many of the same people have continued to partonize the grill, which is open from 6 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., she said.

"IT'S LIKE we are one big family. And the people are what has made this business so interesting and fulfilling," she said.

The grill could have received its name from the crowds of horse trainers and owners at Arlington Park Race Track who have become regular customers, she said.

But, the grill actually was named after the flying red horse, the former insignia for the Mobil gas stations, one of which once was located next door.

"That was 10 years ago or more, when people ordered their coffee with cream and their eggs up," Mrs. Walman said.

"Now they order black coffee and their eggs over easy, scrambled and poached. The way they order has changed, but the menu hasn't," she said.

BREAKFAST, hamburger steaks, roast beef, chili, a daily special and a variety of sandwiches have been the choices for patrons, who sometimes have stood in line until there was room to sit down and eat, she said.

Mrs. Walman said she may decide to use her original menu the last day the grill is open, with the prices about half of what they are today.

She looked about the small square room at the oil paintings and glossy photographs, which grateful customers have presented to her. During the year, they've brought in bags of homegrown vegetables and freshly baked loaves of bread.

"No matter what I could do, things aren't like they used to be. The chain restaurants are taking the place of grills like this where people can come and get away from the rest of the busy world," she said.

MRS. WALMAN has no immediate plans to open another grill in Palatine. She will "take care of things at home" and travel, she said.

She hit the keys of an antique cash register that came with the grill when she bought it.

"It doesn't register anything over $3, that's because nothing here ever costs that much. But now, that's over too. It just won't be the same anymore."

Six Centel cables slashed by vandals

A number of Central Telephone Co. customers in Des Plaines were without service for several hours Monday after vandals cut six telephone cables.

There has been a rash of vandalism to telephone company property since about 900 of its employes, members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 336, went on strike July 1.

Martin Brown, a company spokesman, said the latest cable cuts occurred at Rand Road and Willow Avenue, 455 Graceland Ave., and on Bellaire Avenue.

In addition to the cable cuts, Brown said 15 more tires on company vehicles were flattened Monday, bringing the number to more than 100 in the last week. He also said a company van was reported stolen Monday.

ALTHOUGH DAMAGE to Central Telephone Co. property has been substantial since the strike began, Brown was unable to provide statistics on the number of cases or the cost of the vandalism to the company. He said he would attempt to compile statistics in the next few days.

Central Telephone Co. is offering a $1,000 reward to persons with information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone damaging company property.

The union employes went on strike after the union contract expired and the two sides failed to reach an agreement on a new pact. About 350 management employes are filling in for the striking employes.

The union and company have been at odds over several proposed changes in work rules and company policies. Some 30 issues, including pay raises and fringe benefits, remain unresolved.

The two sides will resume negotiations at 10 a.m. Sept. 9 at the O'Hare Hilton Hotel.

Central Telephone Co. serves 70,000 customers in Des Plaines, Park Ridge, Rosemont, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, Niles and Chicago.

Man, 18, charged with pot possession

A Mount Prospect man was charged with possession of marijuana Monday after police said they found a quantity of the substance in his car.

Arrested was Thomas E. Anderson, 18, of 1105 Hemlock Ln.

Police said Anderson was arrested after police saw him and another man in a parked car with the lights out near 1831 Cree Ln.

Anderson was released on bond, pending an Oct. 15 court appearance.

$1,500 in cash stolen from home

Arlington Heights police were searching for two men who stole about $1,500 in cash Tuesday afternoon from the Esther Swanson home, 1000 S. Highland Ave.

Mrs. Swanson told police the men came to her house about 1:15 p.m., offering to spray tar on her roof. When they entered the house, they took a purse, containing the cash, from a bedroom dresser.

The men drove off in a late-model, block pickup truck, police were told.

Ryan meets Sunday with residents

James T. Ryan, Arlington Heights village president, will meet Sunday with former campaign supporters and other village residents at an afternoon open house.

The open house, characterized as a "type of accountability session" by Bruce H. Dodds, finance chairman of Ryan's April campaign organization will be from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday at the home of Bill Griffith, 8 W. Euclid Ave., Arlington Heights. The public may attend.

Dodds said Ryan wants to meet with some of the people who supported his candidacy in the last election to discuss issues and to report on his four months as village president.

Refreshments will be served, and there will be a cash bar.

Ryan, a former village trustee, was elected to his first term as village president in April, outpolling his Caucus opponent, Trustee David Griffin, 5,813 votes to 4,738.

One bicycle is stolen every minute of every day 365 days a year.

Over half a million bicycles stolen annually.

In recent years, the bike boom has brought a new and alarming problem to the cycling household... bicycle theft. FBI figures show that bicycle theft increased 57 per cent in the five years through 1971, accounting for 17 per cent of all larceny. In 1972, the State of California estimated that 1,100 bicycles were being stolen daily. This information from the U.S. Department of Transportation, Bicycling for Everyone is a dramatic accounting of a major problem that is affecting almost every household in this country.

INSURE YOUR BICYCLE AGAINST THEFT

BICYCLE THEFT INSURANCE gives you the peace of mind of knowing your bike is protected against the financial loss that occurs when it's stolen... FULL LOSS COVERAGE PROTECTION that ordinary HomeOwner's Policies can't offer because of deductibles.

This is the only BICYCLE THEFT INSURANCE program that is approved and sponsored by the National Bicycle Dealers Association. A unique plan that covers the theft of the entire bicycle, including accessories if included in the original purchase of the bicycle. You have the option of replacing the bicycle or accepting a cash settlement. The policy's only significant qualification is that the bicycle must be securely locked to a stationary object (of course, no company would insure an unlocked bicycle).

POLICY PROVISIONS

1. The policy insures against: Direct loss or damage caused by theft, of the entire bicycle described in the declarations, or total constructive loss as the result of attempted theft while the bicycle is locked with a lock and chain to a stationary object and provided further such theft is reported within twenty-four (24) hours to the police.

PROTECT YOUR BIKE WITH BICYCLE THEFT INSURANCE
$16.00 A YEAR (up to $150 value)
NO DEDUCTIBLE
PROTECTION: AT HOME—AT SCHOOL ANYWHERE IN THE U.S.A.

2. The policy does not insure: Loss resulting from partial theft, loss from theft of accessories except when resulting from theft of the entire bicycle, and loss from any other cause.
3. Territorial Limits: The policy covers within the Continental United States, Hawaii and Canada.
4. Loss of Settlement: All claims will be adjusted with the insured within 60 days after presentation and acceptance of proof of loss and proof of value.
   (a) In the event of recovery in undamaged condition prior to final settlement of loss, the bicycle shall be returned to the Insured as settlement of any loss.
   (b) In the event of recovery in a damaged condition the bicycle shall be restored to its undamaged condition immediately prior to loss or the bicycle shall be replaced by a like model of equal value.

In no event shall the Company be liable for more than the purchase price of the property described herein paid by the policyholder.

5. Salvage: In the event of recovery after loss settlement, the bicycle shall revert to the Company.
6. Cancellation: The policy cannot be cancelled by the Company or Insured.

WET WEEKEND weather dampens spirits at the Arlington Heights Firefighters Assn. carnival in downtown Arlington Heights. Rain curtailed activity at the fest during the first three days.

Ryan meets Sunday with residents

James T. Ryan, Arlington Heights village president, will meet Sunday with former campaign supporters and other village residents at an afternoon open house.

The open house, characterized as a "type of accountability session" by Bruce H. Dodds, finance chairman of Ryan's April campaign organization will be from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday at the home of Bill Griffith, 8 W. Euclid Ave., Arlington Heights. The public may attend.

Dodds said Ryan wants to meet with some of the people who supported his candidacy in the last election to discuss issues and to report on his four months as village president.

Refreshments will be served, and there will be a cash bar.

Ryan, a former village trustee, was elected to his first term as village president in April, outpolling his Caucus opponent, Trustee David Griffin, 5,813 votes to 4,738.

The local scene

Money for disease

A group of Arlington Heights youngsters recently raised $221 for the fight against muscular dystrophy.

Toni, Vince and Denice Madsen, Tammy and Sharon Frank and Rose Howard collected the money at a flea market sale. Sale merchandise and cash were donated by area merchants.

Correction

A story Monday on historical homes in Arlington Heights incorrectly listed 1870 as the year in which Asa Dunton build his home at 612 N. State Rd. Dunton lived in the home until 1870, but the home was built in the late 1840s.

County wary of federal rules

Housing grants action delayed

The County Board decided Tuesday to delay action on a program for community development grants after commissioners expressed concern about federal requirements for a countywide plan for low-and moderate-income housing.

The board decided not to act on a proposal from its community development advisory council that the county hire a real estate research firm for $100,000 to evaluate requests for federal grants.

Comr. Carl R. Hansen said the federal requirement for a housing plan made him war of accepting grant money. He said local areas should develop their own housing plans, instead of being forced to accept a county plan.

COMR. FLOYD T. FULLE, said he thought the bureaucratic problems involved in getting the grant money were excessive. Much of the information the research firm would gather has already been collected by the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission, Fulle said.

Board Pres. George W. Dunne said Cook County suburbs got $3.2 million in funds under the program this year. The amount wil increase to $7.8 million in 1976 and to $11.7 million in 1977. This year's money went to a variety of projects including sidewalks in Prospect Heights, cemetery improvements in Palatine Township and a master plan for the Village of Palatine.

Also at Tuesday's meeting, Dunne announced plans to hold a hearing before the county decides what to do about a U.S. Environmental Protection Agency order for auto emission testing.

Dunne said the hearing will be scheduled soon because the federal government has set testing deadlines for later this month.

The federal agency wants the county to force emission testing of cars driven in the Loop by suburbanites.

Electricity—electrons on the move

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Diane Alexander, 12, of Tecumseh, Neb., for her question:

HOW DOES ELECTRIC CURRENT GET INTO A CORD?

This remarkable happening occurs when we plug an electric cord into an electrical outlet. The cord may be attached to a lamp or a toaster with a separate switch. The gadget lights up or heats up when we turn the switch on and stops working when the switch is turned off. Obviously the magic must be in the outlet because when the cord is unplugged the gadget refuses to work.

People learned to use electricity before they knew how it works. Even now nobody understands all the details. But we do know how household current gets from an outlet into an electric cord. This is merely a small sidestep in a gigantic system of power lines that runs to and from a generator.

Electricity is the energy of moving electrons. Normally a family of these mini-particles orbits an atom in orderly traffic lanes. Some can be pried loose, especially the loners in outside lanes. Electric wires are made of copper because the copper atom has a lone electron in an outside lane, all set to leave home.

In a spinning generator, coils of copper keep cutting through the force field around a mighty magnet. For reasons unknown, this creates a jolt called voltage. And voltage pushes zillions of free electrons through electric wires.

However, the copper wires must form an unbroken circuit, a loop with its two ends attached to the generator. Electric wiring has a double strand of copper wire to form a loop. When its two ends are connected with a generator, voltage power zooms through the unbroken circuit and zillions of hopping electrons produce current.

The great power system is carried far and wide and stepped down to supply cities and household current. Along the way there are outlets where current can be tapped from the main circuit. When you plug in a cord, its two prongs open a little gate and current surges through its double strand of copper wire.

Actually, the cord is a small circuit plugged into the larger circuit of household current. The far end of the cord has a gadget to put the electric energy to work. In a lamp bulb, the streaming electrons are crowded through a fine wire filament. This frantic traffic jam causes heat and the glowing hot filament sheds light. The prongs and the outlet open a gate to let household current through the cord. An extra switch can open or close the circuit.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to June Ann Mosley, 10, of Philadelphia, Pa., for her question:

WHERE DOES A SKUNK PRODUCE HIS ODOR?

The skunk's odor is in an oily chemical made by special glands. These glands are located under his fluffy tail. Tiny holes and special muscles squirt the stuff out in a fine spray. When he fires off his chemical weapon, the skunk turns his back on his enemy and raises his tail. So none of the smelly stuff gets on his own fur.

Actually, the skunk is a peaceable character and a fair fighter. Before he fires, he faces his foe, stamps a foot and growls. Sometimes his enemy is too silly to take warning. Then the skunk swings around, lifts up his tail and squirts his spray. He aims at his enemy's face — but the ghastly smell spreads far and wide.

Ask Andy

Electricity—electrons on the move

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Diane Alexander, 12, of Tecumseh, Neb., for her question:

HOW DOES ELECTRIC CURRENT GET INTO A CORD?

This remarkable happening occurs when we plug an electric cord into an electrical outlet. The cord may be attached to a lamp or a toaster with a separate switch. The gadget lights up or heats up when we turn the switch on and stops working when the switch is turned off. Obviously the magic must be in the outlet because when the cord is unplugged the gadget refuses to work.

People learned to use electricity before they knew how it works. Even now nobody understands all the details. But we do know how household current gets from an outlet into an electric cord. This is merely a small sidestep in a gigantic system of power lines that runs to and from a generator.

Electricity is the energy of moving electrons. Normally a family of these mini-particles orbits an atom in orderly traffic lanes. Some can be pried loose, especially the loners in outside lanes. Electric wires are made of copper because the copper atom has a lone electron in an outside lane, all set to leave home.

In a spinning generator, coils of copper keep cutting through the force field around a mighty magnet. For reasons unknown, this creates a jolt called voltage. And voltage pushes zillions of free electrons through electric wires.

However, the copper wires must form an unbroken circuit, a loop with its two ends attached to the generator. Electric wiring has a double strand of copper wire to form a loop. When its two ends are connected with a generator, voltage power zooms through the unbroken circuit and zillions of hopping electrons produce current.

The great power system is carried far and wide and stepped down to supply cities and household current. Along the way there are outlets where current can be tapped from the main circuit. When you plug in a cord, its two prongs open a little gate and current surges through its double strand of copper wire.

Actually, the cord is a small circuit plugged into the larger circuit of household current. The far end of the cord has a gadget to put the electric energy to work. In a lamp bulb, the streaming electrons are crowded through a fine wire filament. This frantic traffic jam causes heat and the glowing hot filament sheds light. The prongs and the outlet open a gate to let household current through the cord. An extra switch can open or close the circuit.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to June Ann Mosley, 10, of Philadelphia, Pa., for her question:

WHERE DOES A SKUNK PRODUCE HIS ODOR?

The skunk's odor is in an oily chemical made by special glands. These glands are located under his fluffy tail. Tiny holes and special muscles squirt the stuff out in a fine spray. When he fires off his chemical weapon, the skunk turns his back on his enemy and raises his tail. So none of the smelly stuff gets on his own fur.

Actually, the skunk is a peaceable character and a fair fighter. Before he fires, he faces his foe, stamps a foot and growls. Sometimes his enemy is too silly to take warning. Then the skunk swings around, lifts up his tail and squirts his spray. He aims at his enemy's face — but the ghastly smell spreads far and wide.

All-suit Stayman: form of old convention

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

All-suit Stayman, as the name implies, is a form of the Stayman convention in which the response is in the cheapest decent four-card suit.

Most modern experts use the jump from one to four notrump as a slam invitation, the jump from one to six as a stop bid — not that they aren't stopping pretty high — and the jump from one to five notrump as an all-suit Stayman grand slam invitation.

North has only 18 points opposite his partner's notrump opening, but he has two four-card minor suits and is definitely interested in seven, if South can show a four-card fit for either of them.

When South does bid six clubs, North is off and running. His six-diamond call announces that he has grand slam interest. South's six-spade bid accepts the idea of a club grand slam. South has a mere 16-point notrump but his doubleton diamond look like money from home. Hence, his six-spade bid.

This is enough for North. He bids seven clubs and South has no trouble making the club grand slam. On the other hand, there are only 12 tricks at notrump.

All-suit Stayman: form of old convention

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

All-suit Stayman, as the name implies, is a form of the Stayman convention in which the response is in the cheapest decent four-card suit.

Most modern experts use the jump from one to four notrump as a slam invitation, the jump from one to six as a stop bid — not that they aren't stopping pretty high — and the jump from one to five notrump as an all-suit Stayman grand slam invitation.

North has only 18 points opposite his partner's notrump opening, but he has two four-card minor suits and is definitely interested in seven, if South can show a four-card fit for either of them.

When South does bid six clubs, North is off and running. His six-diamond call announces that he has grand slam interest. South's six-spade bid accepts the idea of a club grand slam. South has a mere 16-point notrump but his doubleton diamond look like money from home. Hence, his six-spade bid.

This is enough for North. He bids seven clubs and South has no trouble making the club grand slam. On the other hand, there are only 12 tricks at notrump.

Theater at Arlington Park valuable asset to suburbs

The Arlington Park Theatre has reopened, and the dispute which closed its doors four months ago now is only an unpleasant memory.

We are delighted that the labor and leasing problems are resolved and that this theatrical hub of the Northwest suburbs is again operating for those who want a fresh wisp of quality entertainment close to home.

The reopening of the theater represents a commitment to this area and is an apparent endorsement of David Lonn, producer and managing director of the theater.

During the four years Lonn has been associated with Arlington Park Theatre, the facility has fared well critically but not financially.

The theater was awarded two Joseph Jefferson Awards, and the production "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," the 1972 Joseph Jefferson Award winner, set a Chicago theater record by winning all five categories in the competition.

Financially it has been another story. And that is why for four months the theater was shut down for the first time since it opened in 1971. Lonn said revenues simply were insufficient to honor the contract signed with the previous owners and assumed by Hilton Corp. when it took over management of the facility.

Compounding the problem was the cost of tickets to certain performances. Fifteen dollars a ticket — charged for the Gabor sisters' recent engagement at the theater — simply priced most of us out of the market.

But last week, a relatively new play, "In Praise of Love," opened a new season at the Arlington Park Theatre. It starred Tammy Grimes, and the tickets were about $7.

Yesterday, Lynn Redgrave made her first Midwest appearance at Arlington Park, and we see no signs of skyrocketing admission charges.

We are encouraged by the new opening and hope more residents of the Northwest suburban community will see their first performance at the Arlington Park Theatre. This theater is an asset worthy of our support.

They have the stars; now they need audiences!

Herald opinion

Later primary date blessing to voters

Among the legislative bills still awaiting action by Gov. Daniel Walker is one which would shift Illinois' primary election to a later date.

On the governor's desk is a proposal changing the date from the second Tuesday in March to the fourth Tuesday in May. For the coming election year, that would mean that the primary would be held on May 25 instead of March 9, which is just about as early as the election date may occur under present law.

That would in effect knock 10 weeks off the time between the party nomination of candidates in the spring and the inter-party election in November.

It would, we believe, be a blessing to both the candidates and the voters.

While it would present no barrier to candidates who believe they must begin their campaigns many months in advance (many are already well into them), it would provide some relief from long, tedious election battles.

With the tendency toward limits on election spending, the shorter general election campaign time would also enable candidates to spend limited funds more effectively.

Fewer weeks of campaigning also might deter the tendency in some campaigns for the candidates to slip into meaningless name-calling and gimmickery after the issues have long been exhausted.

Shortening the political season would ease the boredom of voters and heighten their interest at election time.

It would also give the politicians an added 10 weeks to concentrate on government without being preoccupied with getting themselves reelected.

We urge the governor to sign the primary election bill.

Beauty spots welcome

The Palatine Beautification Committee is commended for following the lead of Arlington Height, Des Plaines and Mount Prospect in making the area along the Chicago and North Western Ry. and Northwest Highway something other than an eyesore.

Palatine residents are urged to support the committee and its idea to provide the needed maintenance of the area on a volunteer basis. The committee also is considering the formation of an ecology corps, comprised of high school students, who would be paid a minimum wage in the summer to maintain the area.

The new project by Palatine and the continuing work by the other three railroad towns are important since the railroad cuts through the heart of these suburbs. The beautiful railway strip is becoming a showcase area.

Solar energy

New laws will be needed to regulate its use

by JAMES J. DOYLE

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The small fraction of the sun's energy that reaches earth provides as much heat and light as all known reserves of coal, oil and gas.

But harnassing that energy presents economic and technological problems that have only been partially solved.

Representatives of 55 nations presented 280 papers on various aspects of solar energy in the biennial symposium of the International Solar Energy Congress at Los Angeles recently. There was wide disagreement on the economic feasibility, and consensus only on the need for an alternative power source.

More than 60 firms demonstrated systems for collecting, storing and converting solar energy, and it was apparent that while the science was open to commercial speculation, it does not currently present the needed alternative to conventional power.

JOHN BRAZIL and John Magee, a professor and a systems design engineer, respectively, reported that solar energy is already cheaper to use than electricity. But they said more government funding is needed, and federal, state and local governments must become more involved.

To demonstrate the complexity of the problem, they outlined the need for new laws to define rights to the use of sunshine.

They said laws are needed mandating the use of solar energy for nonessential items — swimming pools, for instance. New zoning laws will be needed to provide maximum southern exposure for collector areas in buildings.

Building codes must be revised to regulate insulation, and laws will be needed requiring labeling of homes sold for energy use efficiency.

NASA physicist Dr. Matthew P. Thekaekara disagreed with the Brazil-Magee contention that solar energy is already cheaper than electricity. For one thing, he said, there is no way to measure it for commercial use.

DR. WILLIAM S. DUFF of Colorado State University was cautious about the economics of using solar energy. Duff was involved in an 18-month-long study in association with the Westinghouse Electric corp., financed by the National Science Foundation.

Duff said prospects for solar thermal electric power generation are very good. But which of the many proposed systems is the best?

There is no need to develop new technologies, he said, but there is a need to refine existing ones.

"There are, even by modest categorizing, hundreds of possible designs to concentrate solar energy to generate high-temperature vapor," Duff said.

There also are scores of possible fluids, including water, that could be used to generate vapor to drive dozens of different types of working engines and sizes at a variety of speeds to generate electricity.

CSU-Westinghouse used a computer to analyze designs in order to identify the few systems with the greatest economic potential. They settled on two types.

OTHER PROJECTS, Duff said, have become bogged down in examining designs without considering how the energy once converted can best be used.

The CSU-Westinghouse study was directed towards those processes which convert solar energy to heat, which in turn is used to drive turbines and generators to produce electricity.

Two types showed promise for wide-scale use, he said. One involves collecting the sun's heat to make steam in a net work of pipes to run one large turbine-generator unit to produce electric power.

The second type would use reflector mirrors directing solar heat to a boiler mounted on a tower. The steam collected at the top of the tower would be piped to a generator.

Duff said the study indicated both types potentially can produce electricity at costs comparative with conventional peaking plants, but only for limited times during the day.

THOUSANDS OF homes in this country use solar energy for heat, but wide scale commercial use still means converting solar heat to electric power, and at a cost consumers can afford.

Several speakers at the congress noted that massive public education is needed, and systems must be designed which are compatible so a standard of measurement can be set.

Book boycott back in news

CHARLESTON, W. VA. (UPI) — The ban-the-books forces are ready for the opening of school Tuesday.

"We're calling for a boycott of classes," said the Rev. Avis Hill, leader of protesters against so-called immoral and anti-American textbooks in the Kanawha County schools.

"The fight has just begun," demonstrators yelled at a rally. A picket sign said, "No filthy books in our schools."

The book battle, which drew worldwide attention during several tumultuous months last year, got off to an early start this school term.

Twelve persons were arrested Saturday at nearby St. Albans on charges of disturbing the peace.

Sheriff's deputies said the demonstrators threw soft drinks and hot coffee at them while making the arrests.

POLICE WENT into the board of education auditorium in Charleston Friday and removed 19 women who staged a 29-hour sit-in to protest modern textbooks and the school officials who chose them.

"We will return," said signs held by the women as they were led away. One was arrested on an assault and battery charge.

The controversy began last year when the school board adopted more than 300 texts that some parents found objectionable. They are for all grades and from publishers such as McGraw-Hill, Scott Foresman and McDougal, Littell and Co. Protesters say the books generally are an affront to Christianity and the American way.

Passages on rape, drugs and other controversial subjects and the use of terms such as "son of a bitch" and "Goddamn" are singled out by the protesters as having no place in classroom reading material.

Board officials last year made the reading of the most controversial books optional, saying children of parents objecting to the texts would not be required to read them. Protesters insist that all the books must go.

The almanac

Today is Wednesday, Sept. 3, the 246th day of 1975 with 119 to follow:

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening star is Mercury.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Virgo.

American engineer and teacher Louis Henry Sullivan was born Sept. 3, 1856.

On this day in history:

• In 1783, the signing of the Treaty of Paris officially ended the American Revolutionary War. The new country had won its independence from Great Britain.

• In 1916, the Allies turned back the Germans in World War I's Battle of Verdun.

• In 1939, Great Britain declared war on Germany.

• In 1943, Allied forces invaded the Italian mainland in World War II.

I wish to call your attention to something which I consider a terrible inequity in the use of news space in your paper. A few weeks ago, the congregation where I am privileged to serve was featured on the front page, including a picture, because we had been the recipients of a set of bells. This was by far the best publicity we have ever had, and it was solicited by your paper.

This coming Sunday, a son of the congregation, Mr. David Beckstrom, is being ordained into the holy ministry. We went to the trouble of putting into your hands a news story about this and it got buried on an inside page.

It is obvious that whoever is responsible for front page layout is less interested in news than in some sort of large picture for whatever reason it might be chosen. In the interests of encouraging subscriptions, I would suggest that at least on the front page there be pertinent news stories. Most knowledgeable journalists reserve feature stories and pictures for a feature section of the paper. We appreciate your coverage of all the news, but feel you should recognize significant community news items before you run features on the front page.

BRISTOL, R.I., Sept. 3 — Simon Potter protested that when he asked repayment of 1,000 pounds in gold he loaned the province, he was called a Tory and "refused any other pay but paper."

Theater at Arlington Park valuable asset to suburbs

The Arlington Park Theatre has reopened, and the dispute which closed its doors four months ago now is only an unpleasant memory.

We are delighted that the labor and leasing problems are resolved and that this theatrical hub of the Northwest suburbs is again operating for those who want a fresh wisp of quality entertainment close to home.

The reopening of the theater represents a commitment to this area and is an apparent endorsement of David Lonn, producer and managing director of the theater.

During the four years Lonn has been associated with Arlington Park Theatre, the facility has fared well critically but not financially.

The theater was awarded two Joseph Jefferson Awards, and the production "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," the 1972 Joseph Jefferson Award winner, set a Chicago theater record by winning all five categories in the competition.

Financially it has been another story. And that is why for four months the theater was shut down for the first time since it opened in 1971. Lonn said revenues simply were insufficient to honor the contract signed with the previous owners and assumed by Hilton Corp. when it took over management of the facility.

Compounding the problem was the cost of tickets to certain performances. Fifteen dollars a ticket — charged for the Gabor sisters' recent engagement at the theater — simply priced most of us out of the market.

But last week, a relatively new play, "In Praise of Love," opened a new season at the Arlington Park Theatre. It starred Tammy Grimes, and the tickets were about $7.

Yesterday, Lynn Redgrave made her first Midwest appearance at Arlington Park, and we see no signs of skyrocketing admission charges.

We are encouraged by the new opening and hope more residents of the Northwest suburban community will see their first performance at the Arlington Park Theatre. This theater is an asset worthy of our support.

They have the stars; now they need audiences!

Herald opinion

Later primary date blessing to voters

Among the legislative bills still awaiting action by Gov. Daniel Walker is one which would shift Illinois' primary election to a later date.

On the governor's desk is a proposal changing the date from the second Tuesday in March to the fourth Tuesday in May. For the coming election year, that would mean that the primary would be held on May 25 instead of March 9, which is just about as early as the election date may occur under present law.

That would in effect knock 10 weeks off the time between the party nomination of candidates in the spring and the inter-party election in November.

It would, we believe, be a blessing to both the candidates and the voters.

While it would present no barrier to candidates who believe they must begin their campaigns many months in advance (many are already well into them), it would provide some relief from long, tedious election battles.

With the tendency toward limits on election spending, the shorter general election campaign time would also enable candidates to spend limited funds more effectively.

Fewer weeks of campaigning also might deter the tendency in some campaigns for the candidates to slip into meaningless name-calling and gimmickery after the issues have long been exhausted.

Shortening the political season would ease the boredom of voters and heighten their interest at election time.

It would also give the politicians an added 10 weeks to concentrate on government without being preoccupied with getting themselves reelected.

We urge the governor to sign the primary election bill.

Beauty spots welcome

The Palatine Beautification Committee is commended for following the lead of Arlington Height, Des Plaines and Mount Prospect in making the area along the Chicago and North Western Ry. and Northwest Highway something other than an eyesore.

Palatine residents are urged to support the committee and its idea to provide the needed maintenance of the area on a volunteer basis. The committee also is considering the formation of an ecology corps, comprised of high school students, who would be paid a minimum wage in the summer to maintain the area.

The new project by Palatine and the continuing work by the other three railroad towns are important since the railroad cuts through the heart of these suburbs. The beautiful railway strip is becoming a showcase area.

Tomorrow . . .

County zoning rule could encourage scattering of low income housing sites.

Solar energy

New laws will be needed to regulate its use

by JAMES J. DOYLE

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The small fraction of the sun's energy that reaches earth provides as much heat and light as all known reserves of coal, oil and gas.

But harnassing that energy presents economic and technological problems that have only been partially solved.

Representatives of 55 nations presented 280 papers on various aspects of solar energy in the biennial symposium of the International Solar Energy Congress at Los Angeles recently. There was wide disagreement on the economic feasibility, and consensus only on the need for an alternative power source.

More than 60 firms demonstrated systems for collecting, storing and converting solar energy, and it was apparent that while the science was open to commercial speculation, it does not currently present the needed alternative to conventional power.

JOHN BRAZIL and John Magee, a professor and a systems design engineer, respectively, reported that solar energy is already cheaper to use than electricity. But they said more government funding is needed, and federal, state and local governments must become more involved.

To demonstrate the complexity of the problem, they outlined the need for new laws to define rights to the use of sunshine.

They said laws are needed mandating the use of solar energy for nonessential items — swimming pools, for instance. New zoning laws will be needed to provide maximum southern exposure for collector areas in buildings.

Building codes must be revised to regulate insulation, and laws will be needed requiring labeling of homes sold for energy use efficiency.

NASA physicist Dr. Matthew P. Thekaekara disagreed with the Brazil-Magee contention that solar energy is already cheaper than electricity. For one thing, he said, there is no way to measure it for commercial use.

DR. WILLIAM S. DUFF of Colorado State University was cautious about the economics of using solar energy. Duff was involved in an 18-month-long study in association with the Westinghouse Electric corp., financed by the National Science Foundation.

Duff said prospects for solar thermal electric power generation are very good. But which of the many proposed systems is the best?

There is no need to develop new technologies, he said, but there is a need to refine existing ones.

"There are, even by modest categorizing, hundreds of possible designs to concentrate solar energy to generate high-temperature vapor," Duff said.

There also are scores of possible fluids, including water, that could be used to generate vapor to drive dozens of different types of working engines and sizes at a variety of speeds to generate electricity.

CSU-Westinghouse used a computer to analyze designs in order to identify the few systems with the greatest economic potential. They settled on two types.

OTHER PROJECTS, Duff said, have become bogged down in examining designs without considering how the energy once converted can best be used.

The CSU-Westinghouse study was directed towards those processes which convert solar energy to heat, which in turn is used to drive turbines and generators to produce electricity.

Two types showed promise for wide-scale use, he said. One involves collecting the sun's heat to make steam in a net work of pipes to run one large turbine-generator unit to produce electric power.

The second type would use reflector mirrors directing solar heat to a boiler mounted on a tower. The steam collected at the top of the tower would be piped to a generator.

Duff said the study indicated both types potentially can produce electricity at costs comparative with conventional peaking plants, but only for limited times during the day.

THOUSANDS OF homes in this country use solar energy for heat, but wide scale commercial use still means converting solar heat to electric power, and at a cost consumers can afford.

Several speakers at the congress noted that massive public education is needed, and systems must be designed which are compatible so a standard of measurement can be set.

Book boycott back in news

CHARLESTON, W. VA. (UPI) — The ban-the-books forces are ready for the opening of school Tuesday.

"We're calling for a boycott of classes," said the Rev. Avis Hill, leader of protesters against so-called immoral and anti-American textbooks in the Kanawha County schools.

"The fight has just begun," demonstrators yelled at a rally. A picket sign said, "No filthy books in our schools."

The book battle, which drew worldwide attention during several tumultuous months last year, got off to an early start this school term.

Twelve persons were arrested Saturday at nearby St. Albans on charges of disturbing the peace.

Sheriff's deputies said the demonstrators threw soft drinks and hot coffee at them while making the arrests.

POLICE WENT into the board of education auditorium in Charleston Friday and removed 19 women who staged a 29-hour sit-in to protest modern textbooks and the school officials who chose them.

"We will return," said signs held by the women as they were led away. One was arrested on an assault and battery charge.

The controversy began last year when the school board adopted more than 300 texts that some parents found objectionable. They are for all grades and from publishers such as McGraw-Hill, Scott Foresman and McDougal, Littell and Co. Protesters say the books generally are an affront to Christianity and the American way.

Passages on rape, drugs and other controversial subjects and the use of terms such as "son of a bitch" and "Goddamn" are singled out by the protesters as having no place in classroom reading material.

Board officials last year made the reading of the most controversial books optional, saying children of parents objecting to the texts would not be required to read them. Protesters insist that all the books must go.

The almanac

Today is Wednesday, Sept. 3, the 246th day of 1975 with 119 to follow:

BRISTOL, R.I., Sept. 3 — Simon Potter protested that when he asked repayment of 1,000 pounds in gold he loaned the province, he was called a Tory and "refused any other pay but paper."

Careful diet needed after stomach surgery

In 1967 my husband had an ulcer operation, and part of the stomach was removed. The nerve was also cut to prevent the formation of stomach acid.

Very soon thereafter he started having weak, shaky spells, sometimes breaking out in a sweat. These might come every few days, or they might be two or three weeks apart. He is still having these spells.

We have tried to watch carefully to arrive at some reason for these coming on, but no theory lasts long. We know tension does it, and eating sweets without something solid and non-sweet to go with it is fairly sure to do it, however, he does have attacks without either of these causes.

Three or four years ago I read your column on low blood sugar and tried including protein in his breakfast and that helped for about six weeks. After that it made no difference. We would certainly appreciate your comments on his problem.

You have given a good description of the "dumping syndrome." This is a frequent complication after surgery removing part of the stomach (in as many as 80 per cent of patients). Most patients with this problem get over it, but a small per cent continue to have the problem thereafter.

The doctor says
by Lawrence E. Lamb

Normally it takes about two hours for the stomach to empty after eating. With a small stomach after surgery it may dump all the food out into the small intestine within 10 minutes. That is why it is called the dumping syndrome.

Normally food is kept in the stomach, and the stomach secretions are added to it and it becomes a liquid, adequately diluted with water. When the food is dumped rapidly into the intestine it is not diluted yet. As a result a lot of fluid is pulled into the intestine it is not diluted yet. As a pulling of water out of the circulation has an effect like loss of blood and leads to faintness and symptoms resembling light shock.

The large amount of food dumped at once into the intestine leads to an overactive intestine, causing gas, distention and sometimes diarrhea.

The problem is usually made worse with sweets, because the high concentration of sugar in the small intestine causes a reflex outpouring of insulin and results in rebound low blood sugar. Many people with mild low blood sugar symptoms get them the same way with a rapid (less rapid than in the dumping syndrome) emptying of a high carbohydrate meal.

Usually cutting the vagus nerve helps prevent this problem. Your husband needs to modify his habits. He should avoid sweets. His meals should be high protein meals with some fat and little carbohydrate, particularly avoiding concentrated sweets. He can use bulky vegetables.

He should drink no water or fluids for 30 minutes before, during or after eating. I hasten to add that in normal people drinking water with eating is not harmful.

Your husband should lie down for thirty minutes after each meal. The stomach empties more slowly while in this position. In severe cases the person may do better by eating while lying down. And, he should eat five or six small meals a day and not eat any very large meals. He should avoid coffee, cigarettes, alcohol and stressful situations.

Lack of funds kill Winds

NEW YORK — Intensely fearful of "exposing ourselves to the same kind of nonsense as last year," the World Football League announced Tuesday the immediate expulsion of the Chicago Winds and the dispersal of their players to the other 10 league members.

Although the move took the WFL out of one of the country's most lucrative markets so that the league no longer has a franchise in either Chicago or New York, League President Chris Hemmeter claimed the action strengthened the young circuit.

"The integrity of the Hemmeter Plan must be kept intact at all times," League President Chris Hemmeter said in announcing the bold move. "To shut down a potential problem is a much more responsible act than to allow the potential for future problems even to exist. We're not willing to gamble on the future of the league."

After two disillusioned investors withdrew $175,000 they had on deposit with the league's legal counsel, the WFL Board of Governors met here Monday night and voted 10-1 for the revocation of the Chicago franchise. The only dissenting vote was cast by Kenneth Zak, the Winds' governor, and Hemmeter admitted the possibility of a lawsuit being brought against the league.

"Still," he said, alluding to the league's 1974 debut when it piled up incredible debts and a lot of ill will, "I'd rather we have internal problems than external problems with players, creditors and communities. We're not playing checkerboard with communities."

Chicago's problems were strictly internal and involved the complicated matter of finalizing partnership papers. According to Hemmeter, the club backers initially met the stringent capitalization requirements of the Hemmeter Plan.

However, there were two investors who were wary of turning over their money to the team pending finalization of all legal documents, and instead placed $175,000 on deposit with the WFL's legal counsel.

The WFL pressed the Winds for more than a month and a half to take care of the required paperwork, and when they didn't, the two investors, whom Hemmeter declined to name for the time being, withdrew their money.

When this happened, it caused Chicago to be under their required money position, Hemmeter explained, and the remaining investors could not or did not wish to replace it.

"Our men aren't promoters and they won't stand for that act," Hemmeter said. "Otherwise we're exposing ourselves to the same kind of nonsense as last year."

Leo Cahill, the Winds' general manager, was given a position as an assistant to Hemmeter and a job also is being sought for Coach Abe Gibron.

Prospect gains respect; genuine title contender

by KEITH REINHARD

Now the shoe is on the other foot.

Prospect is about to usher in its second football season with Dave Keefe at the helm. Last year the affable ex-Evanston coach took command of a team scraping rock bottom and turned them completely around, turning the heads of a host of critics along the way.

They are all believers now. So much so, in fact, that Knight grid stock has been sent soaring. The result is a new role for Keefe to assume . . . that as chief of a very genuine contender for Mid-Suburban South Division laurels.

And how is Prospect's mentor adjusting to this different vantage point? "Well there's no question that I like the idea of being considered a contender. I feel very good about this team and our chances too, but I'm not about to rank us right at the top and I don't think it would be fair for anyone else to either.

"In my book," he added, "Schaumburg is still the team to beat in the South. They're the defending champs and they're coming back with an awful lot of good material . . . especially on offense. I wouldn't want to trade with them but I wouldn't want to feel that they don't deserve all the respect in the world either."

The Knights should be the recipients of a dose of respect as well. On the heels of a 6-2 campaign, they'll be sporting 14 returning lettermen, most of whom played regularly in 1974. Keefe also appears to have ample talent to fill in the vacant spaces.

Among the returnees, two bruising offensive backs are sure to earn a good portion of the limelight. Don Meyer (6-2, 212 pounds) and Keith Mason (5-10, 200) combined for over 1000 yards of ground gaining last season and shored up the defense as well at middle linebacker and end respectively.

Another vet Dave Thomas (5-11, 170) is slated to fill in the other halfback slot leaving only quarterback up for grabs. At present Tim Kubicki (5-10, 160) has a slight edge over Kevin McBride (6-2, 178) although both will no doubt be afforded ample opportunity to prove themselves.

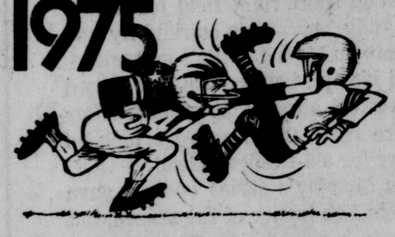
Other lettermen figuring heavily in Keefe's offensive plans are split end Tim Twitchell (5-8, 155), ends Terry Freeman (6-4, 195), Fred Korf (6-3, 190) and Jim Wright (6-0, 170), tackle Dave Carlson (6-2, 205) and guards Chris Peterson (6-0, 195), Scott Vigor (6-0), 190) and Scott Doney (5-11, 190).

Freeman and Korf (ends), Peterson (linebacker) and Vigor and Doney (tackles) can double on defensive duty while backs Kirk Lebica (5-11, 175), and Paul Hellerich (5-11, 165) and end Keith Kallberg (6-0, 175) are also returning defensive stalwarts but it is on this platoon that Keefe must do the most adjusting from last year.

To fill the defensive bill he has Mike Laturno, Chuck Weege and Andy Moretti along with juniors Jeff Carlson and Terry Reed for the secondary and Jeff Moore and junior Dave Horwath for the line. Another possibility is junior linebacker Dan Keller.

Another position still up for grabs is center and juniors Doug Clark, and Pat Higgins and Jim Audet are in contention. Also looking for tackle berths are Paul McGrath, Phil Higley, Doug Scott and Gary McCammon.

"We have better size than last year and better speed. We're a stronger team overall so I feel we should be better, especially with the senior class showing the same signs of leadership that were so important to us last year," summarized Keefe.



New look brings new hope; Fremd attempts to pick up some wins

by PAUL LOGAN

The 1975 football season started in 1974 for Joe Samojedny.

Fremd High School's rookie head football coach was working on the '75 campaign the day after last year's final game. That's one way of helping to shake off the nightmare of a winless (0-8) season.

"We were caught short on organization last year," said Samojedny. "We wanted to make sure it wouldn't ever happen again."

He and his staff broke down the whole Viking program and rebuilt it. They sought some outside advice from both prep and collegiate coaches. By his own conservative estimate, Samojedny said that two to three hours per day were spent in revamping Fremd football during the off-season.

"This year I really feel good . . . what I've seen of the changes in practice," said the Viking coach.

After an intrasquad game last Friday, Samojedny was fairly pleased, adding this:

"We got off the ball pretty good and had good mobility on defense. We put a lot of pressure on the ball. The kids really executed pretty well, but we have to sharpen up some phases."

Although Samojedny was a quarterback as a player, he first spoke of defense when talking about last week's warmup for this Friday's home opener. And well he should for the Vikings must try to break a nine-game losing streak with the defending Mid-Suburban League champion — offensive-minded Schaumburg.

Outstanding defensive teams have been a tradition at Fremd in the past. The 11 best athletes — if they fit together — are placed on defense.

Anchoring the defense will be Al DaValle, a 6-foot-4, 211-pound tackle. DaValle is one of four senior lettermen — all of whom will be playing most of the game.

"Nobody can handle him except for (Doug) Meyer," said Samojedny. Meyer (6-1, 205), who will see a lot of action at offensive guard and defensive tackle, and DaValle had "several good confrontations last Friday night."

The other two senior lettermen are also two-way linemen—ends Tim Riouz (6-3, 165) and Rich Ramsey (6-4, 215).

Other starters on defense will be Tim Bullen (5-8, 158) at rover, Kerry Field (6-2, 181) at safety, linebackers John Finney (5-11, 182) and Steve Neubauer (5-9, 163) and noseman Dave Ragains (5-7, 185).

On offense, Fremd will have "good all-round speed" with several trackmen handling the ball. Besides Bullen — one of three fine quarterback prospects along with Dale Hallberg (6-2, 185) and Jim Borneman (5-11, 152) — other potential starting speedsters are swingback Dave Snow (5-9, 145) and tailback Curt Blik (5-10, 170).

Samojedny calls his trio of signal-callers "probably the best group of passers since I've been here (seven years). Any of those kids could fill in at any time and I wouldn't have any qualms about it."

Fremd's coach also promises more passing this season. Last year the Vikings ran the ball "85 per cent or 90 per cent of the time. Depending on what the defense gives us, I would say we'd probably drop down to a 75-25 or 80-20 ratio, which is really a big jump."

Besides the two-way performers, other definite starters will be tackle Bob Roesner (6-2, 185) and center Gregg Garritson (6-1, 210).

One move-in who could prove to be a big asset this year is Pete Passaglia (6-1, 185). Playing in Wisconsin last year, this senior kicked a 46-yard field goal. He's been averaging 36 yards a punt (last year Fremd average 33.8) and has hit 48 straight extra points.

The Viking players have four goals this year — (1) re-establish a winning tradition, (2) more teamwork than in '74, (3) give 100 per cent all the time and (4) try for a record they can be proud of.

Assisting Samojedny will be Wayne Belskis, Walt Isaccson, Bryant Danisch and Greg Sadowski.

Lack of depth could hit Elk Grove in tough slate

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

According to Elk Grove football coach Don Schnake, anyway you cut it the Grens are going to come up one man short in 1975.

All 11 spots on the field will be filled, but the veteran coach, who guided a small and numerically hurting club to a 4-4 record in 1974, can name only 10 experienced players.

"I have eight seniors and a pair of juniors who played varsity ball last year," Schnake said. "The rest of the players will be question marks until we see them in a game.

"We'll be banking quite a bit on these 10 kids."

Elk Grove opens a meatgrinder schedule at home against Elgin Larkin this Friday. They'll get no break by hosting Schaumburg, the defending Mid-Suburban League champions, the following week.

"We could be better as a team," Schnake said, "but have a tougher time of it. This is the toughest schedule we've ever had here. Everybody is getting big and tough down here in the South Division plus we have Larkin and Gordon Tech."

Elk Grove's dead even record last year was mirrored in the nearly identical scoring totals over the season. Senior quarterback Tom Allen will return at quarterback to direct an offense, that was outscored 97-96 last year, missing its two most productive runners.

John Willard and Tom Roberts have graduated, taking 1107 yards rushing between them.

Allen, who completed only seven of 33 passes, will have two experienced backs to work with. Dave King will work both sides of the fence, halfback on both offense and defense.

The quickest and smallest man on the Elk Grove team, King will also field punts and kickoffs.

Junior Dan Streich, who rumbled for 88 yards as a junior, will play at fullback on offense and cover a linebacker slot on defense.

The only other junior with varsity experience is Scott Stromberg, who will play offensive center and defensive end.

1975 ELK GROVE FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Fri., Oct. 17 HOFFMAN ESTATES 8 p.m.
Fri., Oct. 24 At Conant 8 p.m.
Saturday, Nov. 1 At Buffalo Grove 2 p.m.

"We have some quality players," Schnake said. "Our first line will be okay but after that I don't know. I wish we had some numbers to back up the kids we've got.

"The 10 returning kids will have to play better for us to improve with the schedule we've got."

A lack of depth is seen in the number of players who must go both ways.

The offensive and defensive lines for Elk Grove are so similar they could merely reverse directions when the ball changes hands.

The four mainstays at the line of scrimmage will be seniors Wayne Stoltzman (offensive tackle, defensive end), Pete Gennuso (offensive guard, nose-man on defense), Mike Malone (tackle both ways) and Tim McGuire (offensive guard, defensive tackle).

Joining King in the defensive backfield will be Jim Maier, who is also being looked at at tight end, and John Carpenter, who has been checked out at quarterback this fall.

"We'll play with intensity and aggressiveness and all that," Schnake said. "But with this schedule I need to see some of these kids who are question marks come around and start answering the questions."

Lack of funds kill Winds

NEW YORK — Intensely fearful of "exposing ourselves to the same kind of nonsense as last year," the World Football League announced Tuesday the immediate expulsion of the Chicago Winds and the dispersal of their players to the other 10 league members.

Although the move took the WFL out of one of the country's most lucrative markets so that the league no longer has a franchise in either Chicago or New York, League President Chris Hemmeter claimed the action strengthened the young circuit.

"The integrity of the Hemmeter Plan must be kept intact at all times," League President Chris Hemmeter said in announcing the bold move. "To shut down a potential problem is a much more responsible act than to allow the potential for future problems even to exist. We're not willing to gamble on the future of the league."

After two disillusioned investors withdrew $175,000 they had on deposit with the league's legal counsel, the WFL Board of Governors met here Monday night and voted 10-1 for the revocation of the Chicago franchise. The only dissenting vote was cast by Kenneth Zak, the Winds' governor, and Hemmeter admitted the possibility of a lawsuit being brought against the league.

"Still," he said, alluding to the league's 1974 debut when it piled up incredible debts and a lot of ill will, "I'd rather we have internal problems than external problems with players, creditors and communities. We're not playing checkerboard with communities."

Chicago's problems were strictly internal and involved the complicated matter of finalizing partnership papers. According to Hemmeter, the club backers initially met the stringent capitalization requirements of the Hemmeter Plan.

However, there were two investors who were wary of turning over their money to the team pending finalization of all legal documents, and instead placed $175,000 on deposit with the WFL's legal counsel.

The WFL pressed the Winds for more than a month and a half to take care of the required paperwork, and when they didn't, the two investors, whom Hemmeter declined to name for the time being, withdrew their money.

When this happened, it caused Chicago to be under their required money position, Hemmeter explained, and the remaining investors could not or did not wish to replace it.

"Our men aren't promoters and they won't stand for that act," Hemmeter said. "Otherwise we're exposing ourselves to the same kind of nonsense as last year."

Leo Cahill, the Winds' general manager, was given a position as an assistant to Hemmeter and a job also is being sought for Coach Abe Gibron.

Lack of depth could hit Elk Grove in tough slate

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

According to Elk Grove football coach Don Schnake, anyway you cut it the Grens are going to come up one man short in 1975.

All 11 spots on the field will be filled, but the veteran coach, who guided a small and numerically hurting club to a 4-4 record in 1974, can name only 10 experienced players.

"I have eight seniors and a pair of juniors who played varsity ball last year," Schnake said. "The rest of the players will be question marks until we see them in a game.

"We'll be banking quite a bit on these 10 kids."

Elk Grove opens a meatgrinder schedule at home against Elgin Larkin this Friday. They'll get no break by hosting Schaumburg, the defending Mid-Suburban League champions, the following week.

"We could be better as a team," Schnake said, "but have a tougher time of it. This is the toughest schedule we've ever had here. Everybody is getting big and tough down here in the South Division plus we have Larkin and Gordon Tech."

Elk Grove's dead even record last year was mirrored in the nearly identical scoring totals over the season. Senior quarterback Tom Allen will return at quarterback to direct an offense, that was outscored 97-96 last year, missing its two most productive runners.

John Willard and Tom Roberts have graduated, taking 1107 yards rushing between them.

Allen, who completed only seven of 33 passes, will have two experienced backs to work with. Dave King will work both sides of the fence, halfback on both offense and defense.

The quickest and smallest man on the Elk Grove team, King will also field punts and kickoffs.

Junior Dan Streich, who rumbled for 88 yards as a junior, will play at fullback on offense and cover a linebacker slot on defense.

The only other junior with varsity experience is Scott Stromberg, who will play offensive center and defensive end.

Fri., Oct. 17 HOFFMAN ESTATES 8 p.m.

Saturday, Nov. 1 At Buffalo Grove 2 p.m.

"We have some quality players," Schnake said. "Our first line will be okay but after that I don't know. I wish we had some numbers to back up the kids we've got.

"The 10 returning kids will have to play better for us to improve with the schedule we've got."

A lack of depth is seen in the number of players who must go both ways.

The offensive and defensive lines for Elk Grove are so similar they could merely reverse directions when the ball changes hands.

The four mainstays at the line of scrimmage will be seniors Wayne Stoltzman (offensive tackle, defensive end), Pete Gennuso (offensive guard, nose-man on defense), Mike Malone (tackle both ways) and Tim McGuire (offensive guard, defensive tackle).

Joining King in the defensive backfield will be Jim Maier, who is also being looked at at tight end, and John Carpenter, who has been checked out at quarterback this fall.

"We'll play with intensity and aggressiveness and all that," Schnake said. "But with this schedule I need to see some of these kids who are question marks come around and start answering the questions."

Prospect gains respect; genuine title contender

by KEITH REINHARD

Now the shoe is on the other foot.

Prospect is about to usher in its second football season with Dave Keefe at the helm. Last year the affable ex-Evanston coach took command of a team scraping rock bottom and turned them completely around, turning the heads of a host of critics along the way.

They are all believers now. So much so, in fact, that Knight grid stock has been sent soaring. The result is a new role for Keefe to assume . . . that as chief of a very genuine contender for Mid-Suburban South Division laurels.

And how is Prospect's mentor adjusting to this different vantage point? "Well there's no question that I like the idea of being considered a contender. I feel very good about this team and our chances too, but I'm not about to rank us right at the top and I don't think it would be fair for anyone else to either.

"In my book," he added, "Schaumburg is still the team to beat in the South. They're the defending champs and they're coming back with an awful lot of good material . . . especially on offense. I wouldn't want to trade with them but I wouldn't want to feel that they don't deserve all the respect in the world either."

The Knights should be the recipients of a dose of respect as well. On the heels of a 6-2 campaign, they'll be sporting 14 returning lettermen, most of whom played regularly in 1974. Keefe also appears to have ample talent to fill in the vacant spaces.

Among the returnees, two bruising offensive backs are sure to earn a good portion of the limelight. Don Meyer (6-2, 212 pounds) and Keith Mason (5-10, 200) combined for over 1000 yards of ground gaining last season and shored up the defense as well at middle linebacker and end respectively.

Another vet Dave Thomas (5-11, 170) is slated to fill in the other halfback slot leaving only quarterback up for grabs. At present Tim Kubicki (5-10, 160) has a slight edge over Kevin McBride (6-2, 178) although both will no doubt be afforded ample opportunity to prove themselves.

Other lettermen figuring heavily in Keefe's offensive plans are split end Tim Twitchell (5-8, 155), ends Terry Freeman (6-4, 195), Fred Korf (6-3, 190) and Jim Wright (6-0, 170), tackle Dave Carlson (6-2, 205) and guards Chris Peterson (6-0, 195), Scott Vigor (6-0), 190) and Scott Doney (5-11, 190).

Freeman and Korf (ends), Peterson (linebacker) and Vigor and Doney (tackles) can double on defensive duty while backs Kirk Lebica (5-11, 175), and Paul Hellerich (5-11, 165) and end Keith Kallberg (6-0, 175) are also returning defensive stalwarts but it is on this platoon that Keefe must do the most adjusting from last year.

To fill the defensive bill he has Mike Laturno, Chuck Weege and Andy Moretti along with juniors Jeff Carlson and Terry Reed for the secondary and Jeff Moore and junior Dave Horwath for the line. Another possibility is junior linebacker Dan Keller.

Another position still up for grabs is center and juniors Doug Clark, and Pat Higgins and Jim Audet are in contention. Also looking for tackle berths are Paul McGrath, Phil Higley, Doug Scott and Gary McCammon.

"We have better size than last year and better speed. We're a stronger team overall so I feel we should be better, especially with the senior class showing the same signs of leadership that were so important to us last year," summarized Keefe.

New look brings new hope; Fremd attempts to pick up some wins

by PAUL LOGAN

The 1975 football season started in 1974 for Joe Samojedny.

Fremd High School's rookie head football coach was working on the '75 campaign the day after last year's final game. That's one way of helping to shake off the nightmare of a winless (0-8) season.

"We were caught short on organization last year," said Samojedny. "We wanted to make sure it wouldn't ever happen again."

He and his staff broke down the whole Viking program and rebuilt it. They sought some outside advice from both prep and collegiate coaches. By his own conservative estimate, Samojedny said that two to three hours per day were spent in revamping Fremd football during the off-season.

"This year I really feel good . . . what I've seen of the changes in practice," said the Viking coach.

After an intrasquad game last Friday, Samojedny was fairly pleased, adding this:

"We got off the ball pretty good and had good mobility on defense. We put a lot of pressure on the ball. The kids really executed pretty well, but we have to sharpen up some phases."

Although Samojedny was a quarterback as a player, he first spoke of defense when talking about last week's warmup for this Friday's home opener. And well he should for the Vikings must try to break a nine-game losing streak with the defending Mid-Suburban League champion — offensive-minded Schaumburg.

Outstanding defensive teams have been a tradition at Fremd in the past. The 11 best athletes — if they fit together — are placed on defense.

Anchoring the defense will be Al DaValle, a 6-foot-4, 211-pound tackle. DaValle is one of four senior lettermen — all of whom will be playing most of the game.

"Nobody can handle him except for (Doug) Meyer," said Samojedny. Meyer (6-1, 205), who will see a lot of action at offensive guard and defensive tackle, and DaValle had "several good confrontations last Friday night."

The other two senior lettermen are also two-way linemen—ends Tim Riouz (6-3, 165) and Rich Ramsey (6-4, 215).

Other starters on defense will be Tim Bullen (5-8, 158) at rover, Kerry Field (6-2, 181) at safety, linebackers John Finney (5-11, 182) and Steve Neubauer (5-9, 163) and noseman Dave Ragains (5-7, 185).

On offense, Fremd will have "good all-round speed" with several trackmen handling the ball. Besides Bullen — one of three fine quarterback prospects along with Dale Hallberg (6-2, 185) and Jim Borneman (5-11, 152) — other potential starting speedsters are swingback Dave Snow (5-9, 145) and tailback Curt Blik (5-10, 170).

Samojedny calls his trio of signal-callers "probably the best group of passers since I've been here (seven years). Any of those kids could fill in at any time and I wouldn't have any qualms about it."

Fremd's coach also promises more passing this season. Last year the Vikings ran the ball "85 per cent or 90 per cent of the time. Depending on what the defense gives us, I would say we'd probably drop down to a 75-25 or 80-20 ratio, which is really a big jump."

Besides the two-way performers, other definite starters will be tackle Bob Roesner (6-2, 185) and center Gregg Garritson (6-1, 210).

One move-in who could prove to be a big asset this year is Pete Passaglia (6-1, 185). Playing in Wisconsin last year, this senior kicked a 46-yard field goal. He's been averaging 36 yards a punt (last year Fremd average 33.8) and has hit 48 straight extra points.

The Viking players have four goals this year — (1) re-establish a winning tradition, (2) more teamwork than in '74, (3) give 100 per cent all the time and (4) try for a record they can be proud of.

Assisting Samojedny will be Wayne Belskis, Walt Isaccson, Bryant Danisch and Greg Sadowski.

Sox lose in 12th

George Brett's two-out run-scoring single — his fourth hit of the game — touched off a three-run 12th inning rally Tuesday night that carried the Kansas Royals to a 4-1 triumph over the Chicago White Sox and denied Jim Kaat his 20th win of the season at Sox Park.

Amos Otis doubled after two were out in the 12th before Brett's hit sent him across with what proved to be the winning run and then the White Sox collapsed. Kaat (19-11) gave up his first walk of the game to John Mayberry and Harmon Killebrew was safe on Bill Melton's second error of the game to fill the bases. Al Cowens then singled to score both Brett and Mayberry.

Cubs top Cards

Two errors by second baseman Larry Lintz and an error and balk by pitcher Lynn McGlothen allowed the Chicago Cubs to score twice in the seventh inning Tuesday night and defeat the St. Louis Cardinals 5-3 at St. Louis.

With the score tied 1-1, Jerry Morales led off the seventh with a routine pop-up which Lintz dropped in short right field for a two-base error. Morales took third on Andy Thornton's outfield fly and scored on Lintz' bad throw to the plate on Manny Trillo's grounder.

Steve Swisher beat out an infield hit and both runners advanced on McGlothen's wild throw on a pickoff attempt at second. After Don Kessinger walked, plate umpire Andy Olsen called a balk on McGlothen, allowing Swisher to score for a 3-1 Chicago lead.

Thornton, who hit two homers in Monday's series opener, gave Chicago a 1-0 lead in the fifth with his 13th homer of the season, but St. Louis tied the score in the fifth on a run-scoring single by Lou Brock.

Nastase, Vilas win at Open

Ilie Nastase, the 1972 champion from Romania who has charmed and angered crowds all over the world, Tuesday kept his temper and his game under tight control to defeat Mexico's Raul Ramirez in five sets and lead two other foreigners into the quarterfinals at the U.S. Open tennis championships at Forest Hills, N.Y.

The eighth-seeded Nastase, 29, beat the 11th-seeded, 23-year-old Mexican, 6-4, 5-7, 6-0, 6-7, 6-3. Earlier in the day, third seeded Manuel Orantes of Spain, winner of five national clay court titles this year and seven tournaments in all, defeated Frenchman Francois Jauffret, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Also, second-seeded Guillermo Vilas defeated Jan Kodes in a late evening match, 6-2, 6-0, 6-0.

Parilli sues; WFL drafts players

A $540,000 damage suit was filed against the Chicago Winds by former Coach Babe Parilli Tuesday, the same day the Winds were put out of business by the World Football League.

Parilli charged that he had signed a two-year contract to coach the Winds, and had verbal assurance that he was "hired for life" and that no WFL coach would "be discharged for two years."

. . . Meanwhile, the WFL drafted the Chicago Winds' players with the Philadelphia Bell making the biggest gains. The Bell claimed nine disenfranchised players, including premier wide receiver John Gilliam, quarterback Pete Beathard and Cyril Pinder, who once played for the Bears.

BILL BLOWS IT in the Joe Garagiola/Bazooka Big League Bubble Gum Blowing contest. Madlock lost out to Bob Forsch's 12½-inch bubble.

Sox lose in 12th

George Brett's two-out run-scoring single — his fourth hit of the game — touched off a three-run 12th inning rally Tuesday night that carried the Kansas Royals to a 4-1 triumph over the Chicago White Sox and denied Jim Kaat his 20th win of the season at Sox Park.

Amos Otis doubled after two were out in the 12th before Brett's hit sent him across with what proved to be the winning run and then the White Sox collapsed. Kaat (19-11) gave up his first walk of the game to John Mayberry and Harmon Killebrew was safe on Bill Melton's second error of the game to fill the bases. Al Cowens then singled to score both Brett and Mayberry.

Cubs top Cards

Two errors by second baseman Larry Lintz and an error and balk by pitcher Lynn McGlothen allowed the Chicago Cubs to score twice in the seventh inning Tuesday night and defeat the St. Louis Cardinals 5-3 at St. Louis.

With the score tied 1-1, Jerry Morales led off the seventh with a routine pop-up which Lintz dropped in short right field for a two-base error. Morales took third on Andy Thornton's outfield fly and scored on Lintz' bad throw to the plate on Manny Trillo's grounder.

Steve Swisher beat out an infield hit and both runners advanced on McGlothen's wild throw on a pickoff attempt at second. After Don Kessinger walked, plate umpire Andy Olsen called a balk on McGlothen, allowing Swisher to score for a 3-1 Chicago lead.

Thornton, who hit two homers in Monday's series opener, gave Chicago a 1-0 lead in the fifth with his 13th homer of the season, but St. Louis tied the score in the fifth on a run-scoring single by Lou Brock.

Nastase, Vilas win at Open

Ilie Nastase, the 1972 champion from Romania who has charmed and angered crowds all over the world, Tuesday kept his temper and his game under tight control to defeat Mexico's Raul Ramirez in five sets and lead two other foreigners into the quarterfinals at the U.S. Open tennis championships at Forest Hills, N.Y.

The eighth-seeded Nastase, 29, beat the 11th-seeded, 23-year-old Mexican, 6-4, 5-7, 6-0, 6-7, 6-3. Earlier in the day, third seeded Manuel Orantes of Spain, winner of five national clay court titles this year and seven tournaments in all, defeated Frenchman Francois Jauffret, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Also, second-seeded Guillermo Vilas defeated Jan Kodes in a late evening match, 6-2, 6-0, 6-0.

Parilli sues; WFL drafts players

A $540,000 damage suit was filed against the Chicago Winds by former Coach Babe Parilli Tuesday, the same day the Winds were put out of business by the World Football League.

Parilli charged that he had signed a two-year contract to coach the Winds, and had verbal assurance that he was "hired for life" and that no WFL coach would "be discharged for two years."

. . . Meanwhile, the WFL drafted the Chicago Winds' players with the Philadelphia Bell making the biggest gains. The Bell claimed nine disenfranchised players, including premier wide receiver John Gilliam, quarterback Pete Beathard and Cyril Pinder, who once played for the Bears.

Demand for pets is increasing

Larger incomes, increased leisure time and movement to the suburbs have been partly responsible for the increased demand for pets, according to Dr. Robert Schneider, director of the Neoplasm Registry at the University of California's School of Veterinary Medicine.

Reporting in the Aug. 15 issue of the Journal of the American Veterinary Medical Assn., and using two California counties as an example, Dr. Schneider points out that "while the human population of these counties grew by 23.5 per cent between 1960 and 1970, the canine population increased by 85.4 per cent. The feline population increased approximately 66 per cent during the same period."

If the canine and feline population growth pattern continues, then one proposed solution is the development of low-cost spay clinics. As Dr. Schneider points out, many pet owners in the low income areas would be helped. It would take, however, an overall program as a means to control periodic dog and cat overpopulation.

"Activities should be aimed at current and potential pet owners, including enforcement of leash laws, differential licensing fees for neutered pets, registration of cats, charges for humane killing of an unwanted pet or litter and education programs."

Labrador fun match —

Those who have Labrador Retrievers might like to attend this event. It's the specialty fun match to be held by the Winnebago Labrador Retriever Club at the Pecatonica River Forest Preserve, Rockford, Sunday.

Puppies are not to compete against adult dogs and there will be a Parade of Champions. Judging gets under way with obedience and junior showmanship at 11 a.m., with conformation at noon.

If you want more information, call 742-3742 or 593-7436.

This & that —

Keep in mind that we soon will celebrate National Dog Week. It's the time to remind yourself that you have a pet that needs care the other 51 weeks of the year.

British dog breeders for the second straight year exported more dogs to Italy than to the United States. Most folks think we are England's best customer when it comes to dogs. Not so—during 1974, the Kennel Club of England issued 14,446 export pedigrees. Of these, 2,398 were for dogs shipped to Italy, 2,127 to the United States and the balance to West Germany, Canada and France.

Barks & Bays —

From what we read it seems that the dogs in Paris will soon have public flush toilets for their use. After they use it the owner presses a button to flush away the evidence.

Telly Savalas comes to Schaumburg Lanes Sunday.

Telly (Kojak) Savalas at bowling ceremonies

Television detective star Telly (Kojak) Savalas will join a myriad of entertainment celebrities at the gala opening of Schaumburg Lanes bowling center Sunday beginning at 2 p.m.

Savalas has been added to the lid-lifting ceremonies which already includes bowling champions Dave Soutar and his wife Judy, Fred "Skee" Foremsky and Vesma Grinfelds.

Chicago Bulls' basketball star Bob Love will be in attendance as will a detail of Playboy Bunnies who will help introduce the revolutionary two-lane Automatic Scorer — the first in the midwest and only the second in the country.

The new establishment at 115 N. Roselle Rd. in Schaumburg, will be christened by the bowling balls of the pros who will demonstrate their skills at the festivities that are open to the public without charge.

Dave Soutar owns 14 sanctioned 300 games while his wife Judy is also a member of the Professional Bowling Assn. Grinfelds holds two PBA tournament victories in addition to earning two gold medals from the U.S. Figure Skating Assn.

Love, a perennial NBA All-Star selection, and Savalas, the quick-witted, Tootsie-Roll Pop-chomping crimestopper, also promise to bowl them over.

Faynor, Wright capture Paddock doubles honors

Orson Faynor and Gary Wright captured the doubles final in the boys 16-18 division of the Paddock Tennis tourney with a 7-6, 2-6, 6-4 victory over Todd Van Gorp and Bill Siebold at River Trails Tennis Center late Monday night.

Faynor, a senior at Conant High School, will return to the courts at Arlington High today at 3 p.m. for his finals match against Dan Hanson.

Quarterfinals and semis in boys 15-and-under singles and doubles will be played later this week when time is available.

Clare Gates knocked off Donna Laverty, 6-2, 6-2, in the women's open singles at River Trails Monday night. Gates, last year's girls 16-18 champ, had defeated women's defending champion Rachel Hussissian, 6-2, 6-3, in the semifinals earlier in the evening.

Eight park districts form winter ice hockey league

Eight northwest suburban park districts have formed a recreational ice hockey program for boys six to 16 years old.

The emphasis will be placed on fun and learning with all youngsters receiving equal amounts of ice time. Games are scheduled for the Rolling Meadows Sports Complex.

Participating park districts are Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove, Schaumburg, Palatine, Mount Prospect, Buffalo Grove, Bensenville and the Bloomingdale Athletic Club.

Registration is currently under way and no previous hockey background is necessary. All boys are welcome.

Each youngster will receive a minimum 24 hours on ice, a team jersey, accident insurance, a league patch and discount pass to all public sessions at the Rolling Meadows Sports Complex.

Action begins on Wednesday, Oct. 1, and will continue through March.

Youngsters should contact their local park district or the Rolling Meadows Park District for specific registration information.

Dow Jones plunges 11.65

NEW YORK (UPI) — Traders and investors stayed on the sidelines Tuesday as prices fell sharply along a broad front in slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The development that broke the back of a three-session rally was a Treasury Dept. report the federal government registered an $11.05 billion deficit in July. A short time before, Treasury Sec. William Simon had said he was concerned the government had done too much, not too little, to stimulate the economy.

This was enough to turn the market round. The Dow Jones industrial average, up around three pints at the outset, plunged 11.65 points to 823.69. It had gained 32.23 points in the previous three sessions.

STANDARD & Poor's 500-stock index lost 1.40 to 85.48. The average price of an NYSE common share decreased by 47 cents. Declines routed advances, 992 to 399, among the 1,748 issues crossing the tape.

Volume totaled only 11,460,000 shares, down from the 15,480,000 traded Friday. The market was closed Monday for the Labor Day holiday.

Gold mining issues plunged following a tentative decision of the IMF to sell gold to help developing nations. ASA Ltd., tied for third place among the Big Board actives, fell 2 3/8 to 34 3/8 on 125,500 shares.

Utah International led the Big Board actives, off 2 5/8 to 50 7/8 on 144,800 shares, including a block of 117,000 shares at 51. Other coal mining issues also were lower. Eastern Gas & Fuel lost 1¼ to 26¼ and Pittston 1 to 69½.

Citicorp was the second most active issue, off 1 7/8 to 30 1/8 on 141,900 shares. Texas Utilities was tied with ASA Ltd. for third, off ¼ to 17½ on 25,500 shares.

PRICES CLOSED lower in slow trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share fell eight cents. Volume totaled 1,320,000 shares, compared with 1,630,000 traded Friday.

On the Chicago Board Options Exchange, 44,585 contracts were traded, compared with 57,895 Friday. Polaroid October 35s led the actives, off 58 to 2¾. Homestake Mining October 40s followed, off 7/8 to 2. RCA October 20s were third, off 1/8 to ½.

"THE AMERICAN dream has always been to produce a product that is superior to anything else from anywhere else," said Harry Marcowitz, leaning on one of his hydraulic paper cutting machines.

Launching a business? Do it yourself

by LEA TONKIN
Second of a series

Money and guts. That's what it takes to launch a new business, says entrepreneur Harry Marcowitz.

Survival is another matter. Marcowitz, who dubbed himself president and janitor of American Hydraulic Paper Cutters Inc. (AHPC), 360 Lively Blvd., Elk Grove Village, hopes to turn the fledgling venture into a profit-making company by the end of 1975.

"So far, I haven't taken a penny out of it," Marcowitz said. As head of a company that makes paper cutting machines used by printing firms and other industries, he measures initial success in personal achievement rather than profits.

The opening of the small plant in June 1974 was an early victory. Undaunted by the lack of encouragement from government agencies and the rejection of his initial request for financing from a local bank, Marcowitz and his wife, Gloria, sought out private financing arrangements. "Nobody but ourselves thought we could ever make it," he said.

THE NEXT HURDLE was setting up shop, Marcowitz said. "We made every dollar go for two. And we improvise." Used equipment and ingenuity replace expensive new machinery.

Marcowitz figures the experience he accumulated through several years' work for a German paper cutting machine manufacturer is an important edge in the struggle to equip and maintain the plant. He uses a machinery design that is a revised version of those used by the German firm, now defunct.

Starting out with a wooden model of the machines he envisioned, Marcowitz went to a pattern maker for the production of needed equipment. He contracted for the manufacture of some components in the paper cutting machine. "All the smaller parts are made here," he said. Valves, pistons, plates and other parts are turned out by Marcowitz and his lone employe, machinist Sigmund Janiszewski.

Once the plans for the manufacture and servicing of the huge machines were completed, AHPC was ready for a trial run. That's when he started working eight days a week, Marcowitz said.

"WE'RE CHIEF COOK and bottle washer," he said. "We do the cleaning. We make machines, We try to talk to people who come to the door to sell us something." Mrs. Marcowitz answers phone calls when she is not on the job as a teacher.

"I don't count the hours," Marcowitz said of the efforts to keep the company operations on an even keel.

Marcowitz discovered he needed a sales department. "I'm the sales department," he said. He tried a variety of advertising approaches, finally deciding that the personal sales call is the best approach. He had worked several years as an insurance salesman, including service as a district manager.

"Sles experience is useful," Marcowitz said. He believes a good salesman should take what he's learned in one field and apply the techniques in another. "I think the greatest asset in sales is humility. And honesty goes hand in hand," he said. Marcowitz is proud that he sold his entire first year's production — two machines.

Transportation of parts and finished products is an added concern for the small businessman. Marcowitz rents one truck, and recently bought a used van. "I'm a field rep too," he said of his service work on machinery.

MARCOWITZ MAKES out the invoices for the company, taking paperwork home at night. He hired an attorney and an accountant to assist in the new venture.

"You have to think young, think positive," Marcowitz said. "You may feel like you're 50 at the end of the day."

The business executive plans to expand production to 12 machines a year. He talks about success, of making a profit. When he can hire more people Marcowitz said he wants to give handicapped veterans first crack at the jobs.

Most of all, Marcowitz wants to make a good paper cutting machine. "The American dream has always been to produce a produce that is superior to anything else from anywhere else," he said. "I know one thing — this machine will last much longer than I expect to."

America needs people who are willing to work with their hands and people who will take risks, he said. Pride in workmanship should be the reason for starting any new business, he believes.

"There used to be a number of paper cutter manufacturers," Marcowitz said. "Now there's only one other in the U.S."

The key to success in the paper cutter business will be improvements in quality and performance, Marcowtiz said. He plans to plow money and hard work into the company operation to achieve that success. "Eventually, when I make a sales call, people will say, 'A gentleman was here. He has a fine American-made product," Marcowitz said.

Consumers topic of seminar at Marriott

A seminar on consumer relations will be Sept. 24 at the Marriott Motor Hotel, Chicago.

The U.S. Dept. of Commerce and the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce are sponsors of the meeting. Business, consumer and government representatives are invited to participate in the session.

Virginia Knauer, White House consumer affairs advisor, will discuss the consumer movement. U.S. Sec. of Commerce Rogers C. B. Morton plans to discuss business and consumerism.

Among other participants will be Gerald Marks, director of the Chicago district office for the U.S. Dept. of Commerce; Samuel B. Sherwin, deputy assistant secretary for domestic commerce; a representative of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission; Howard Kaufmann, assistant attorney general, consumer fraud division, State of Illinois; John Nevin, president of Zenith Corp.; a representative of the Federal Trade Commission and a consumer representative.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. The program will conclude at 3:15 p.m.

Saudi Arabia official to speak at meeting

Arab business opportunities will be discussed at a meeting Sept. 8-10 in Chicago.

The conference is sponsored by the Center for Management Development of the American Management Associations and the Mid-America-Arab Chamber of Commerce Inc.

The program will start Monday, at 9 a.m. The sessions will be at the association management center, 8655 W. Higgins Rd., Chicago.

Cure budget at hospital with surgery

Economics, gifts transfuse facility

by LeROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Most teaching hospitals, those where young doctors do their graduate study, have mounting deficits these days but one of the oldest in the country has just achieved quite a turnaround.

It is the 117-year-old Long Island College Hospital in Brooklyn, which is affiliated with the Downstate Medical Center of University of the State of New York. It was one of the first hospitals in the country to operate its own medical school and ran it for many years.

As hospitals go, it's not a giant, but with 567 beds neither is it small.

UNDER THE presidency of James Kingsbury, a managing partner in Edwards & Hanly Wall Street brokerage, Long Island College Hospital has just ended a six year cumulative series of deficits totaling $8.3 million and finished its fiscal year with a modest surplus of $25,000.

"This isn't a profit in an ordinary business sense," Kingsbury explained. "It was achieved by economies and increasing revenues but primarily by doubling gifts, pledges and grants to about $854,000."

But Kingsbury said that is only part of the story. As a matter of fact, he said, the contribution of the hospital's medical staff, particularly the physicians who are in private practice in the hospital, most of whom also contribute to its teaching load, was extremely important.

"IT IS POPULAR to blame doctors for the current high cost of hospital care," he said, "but our doctors have been extremely cooperative and very sharp in helping the hospital administration hold costs down, avoid wasteful duplicating of expenditures and helping us to collect for as much of the services we are obliged to render as is humanly possible."

Kingsbury's verdict on the cooperative attitude of his medical staff would appear to be well taken because the deficits in recent years of most New York hospitals of about the same size have been five to ten times as great as that of Long Island College.

But there may be another reason for the hospital's comparatively small deficit. It is one of the few hospitals in the city whose workers are not yet unionized and it has two huge groups of volunteer workers from the community, one consists of adults and the other young people.

"Nevertheless, we still have financial problems," Kingsbury said. "Slow collections is one. Neither Medicare nor Medicaid payments come in as rapidly as the hospital has to pay its bills, including the payroll."

But, he said, now that the annual drain of an operating deficit on the hospital's financial surplus accumulated over more than a century has been arrested, everybody feels a lot better.

This is especially true because Long Island College Hospital is expanding again. It has just opened one large new pavilion and has another projected.

Social Security checks can go straight to bank

Northwest suburban residents may requtst that monthly Social Security and supplemental security income checks be deposited directly in their checking or savings accounts, said Norman Jerome, manager of the Arlington Heights Social Security office.

"The direct deposit program is entirely voluntary," Jerome said of the new policy started in September. "People who want their Social Security and supplemental security income checks to continue coming to their homes shouldn't do anything. Their checks will keep on coming as in the past.

"But people who want their checks mailed to a bank, savings bank, savings and loan association or similar institution or a federal or state chartered credit union can arrange for it with a direct deposit authorization form," he said. Information on the direct deposit plan will be mailed during September to Social Security recipients. The authorization form, called SF 1199, is available from area financial institutions.

People whose checks are already mailed to a financial institution should also make direct deposit arrangements with the proper form, Jerome said.

Suburbs outvoted on funds shift

County board fight on bank vote

A simmering battle between suburban and city members of the County Board over access to information erupted Tuesday when Chicago Democrats forced the naming of seven banks as depositories for county funds.

The board's six suburban Republicans, who were told of the bank proposal as the meeting began, voted "no." Ten Democrats from Chicago voted "yes" and passed the legislation.

Another Democrat-backed proposal to transfer more than $629,000 from 21 departments' payrolls to nonpersonnel accounts, also was passed over the six suburban "no" votes.

"WHAT IS THE program for selecting these banks?" Comr. Carl Hansen of Mount Prospect asked finance committee chairman Jerome Huppert. "Why were these banks chosen over others?" Comr. Hal Tyrrell of LaGrange Park said.

"Because they liked the color of the shirts the bank president wore," Huppert answered.

The seven banks, including three in south suburban Cook County, were picked by a citizens committee that was formed by Circuit Court Clerk Morgan Finley. The resolution given to board members Tuesday did not explain reasons for the recommendations.

THE BANKS were Drovers National Bank of Chicago, Archer National Bank of Chicago, Palos Bank and Trust Company of Palos Heights, Highland Community Bank of Chicago, Tri-State Bank of Markham, Thornridge State Bank of South Holland and Central National Bank of Chicago.

Four county board members, including Comr. Floyd T. Fulle of Des Plaines, were named by the Better Government Assn. three years ago as stockholders of banks that held interest-free county funds. The board members were later exonerated of the conflict of interest charges.

Fulle said information about the seven banks was necessary to avoid similar charges. "Have we taken any steps to put a policy in order?" Fulle said.

"We're taking another look," Huppert answered without explaining why the seven banks were named.

THE SUBURBAN commissioners including four who were elected to freshman teams last winter, have quietly protested domination of background information by Democrat board members since last spring. Democrats serve as chairmen of all major board committees.

The suburban commissioners have requested preparation of the board agenda at least one working day before a scheduled board meeting, open committee meetings and copies of documents that discuss board legislation, Republican board members have told The Herald.

"I do think we'll receive more information now," Tyrrell said after the meeting. "It's been a tooth pulling contest from the beginning. But, (County Board President George) Dunne prefers to avoid a confrontation and said more information would be forthcoming."

Comr. Mary McDonald of Lincolnwood began the protest Tuesday when Chicago board members asked for approval of the $629,000 in fund transfers. "We need substantiation for these transfers," she said.

"The chairman of the committee has reviewed all these transfers," Huppert said.

"I'm a member of the finance committee and I haven't been told if these are needed or not. No information has been brought before the board," she said.

HUPPERT TOLD board members the funds accumulate in wage accounts because of time lags between retirement and replacement of county employes. Department heads were told during budget reviews that 3 to 5 per cent of wage funds will be available for year-end transfer to nonpersonnel accounts, Huppert said.

"This is a common budgetary technique," Dunne said.

"This board has never been informed why this is needed," Tyrrell said.

Included in the transfers was more than $155,000 from Dept. of Corrections wages to non-personnel accounts. County Board members were recently criticized for not providing adequate funds for staffing of County Jail, Fulle said. "In this case, the sheriff is asking to take money from salaries and wages and to transfer it," he said.

Army recruits available; but not for fighting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army is getting all the recruits it needs and they're smarter than in the past — but not enough of them want to fight or learn skills that aren't usable on the civilian job market.

Many recruits are after training that will carry over into a civilian job.

There is no trouble with numbers. The July 1975 recruiting figures, issued Friday, show the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines are getting 101 per cent of their recruiting needs.

Only 4 per cent came in with low IQ scores. A year ago, 18 per cent of the Army's recruits were in the low intelligence category and at the height of the Vietnam War it ran to 28 per cent.

AS HE LEFT the job of Army secretary in July, Howard Callaway said the economy helped improve the quality of the Army. "To have more people out there to pick from naturally makes it easier for us to get more quality."

The problem, spokesmen said, has been to get people who want to be trained for the fighting jobs — infantry and tanks — and the sophisticated electronics tasks that modern warfare demands.

Army Sec. Martin Hoffmann said Friday the Army was going to change its recruiting procedures so that jobs which could carry over into civilian life would be more carefully controlled.

Truck drivers are an example.

"We had a situation where young men — and women — would get out of the truck school and we wouldn't have jobs for them," one source said. "So they'd basically just sit around a base waiting for a job to open up, and you can imagine the disciplinary and other problems that result from that."

Hoffmann said the Army Recruiting Command will establish weekly objectives for each job.

Coast Guard's 'Eagle'

War prize trains sailors

by RICHARD SISK

ABOARD THE USCGC EAGLE (UPI) — Adolf Hitler commissioned her the "Horst Wessel" four decades ago, but today the majestic windjammer rides the seas as the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter "Eagle."

Capt. James R. Kelly, 45, of Scituate, Mass., skippers the Eagle — the only sailing ship in the United States, he says, that cannot fit under the Brooklyn Bridge. The Eagle's mainmast is 20 feet taller than the 130-foot high roadway of the bridge.

As the squarerigger eased into New York Harbor Friday, Kelly chuckled at the small flotilla of weekend sailors who pulled alongside to gawk at the Eagle when it appeared off lower Mahattan like a prop from an old Errol Flynn movie.

"We seem to attract a lot of attention wherever we go," Kelly said. "It's the romance of the ship."

THE 295-FOOT Eagle was in New York for an eight-day visit in a preview of "Operation Sail, '76." She will be host ship for the event which will bring 200 sailing vessels from 30 nations to New York for the Bicentennial celebration.

Hitler commissioned the white-hulled bark the "Horst Wessel" in 1936. It was built to train German midshipment. It has served the same purpose for cadets at the Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn., since 1946 when she was claimed as a war prize.

The cadets sleep in hammocks and confront the fear of going aloft in her maze of rigging above a rolling teakwood deck.

SEAMAN SCOTT BLACK, 19, of Salt Lake City, Utah, said furling and unfurling the Eagle's half-acre of sun bleached sail in a heavy sea is "something you never forget. One second you're laying on top of a yardarm and the next minute you're hanging on for dear life."

Chief Warrant Officer Richard "Red" Shannon, of Honolulu, a 22-year Coast Guard veteran, said "a lot of people think the Eagle is a floating anachronism, but her purpose is to train cadets.

"Sending them up in a heavy sea separates the men from the boys."

Immunization clinic Oct. 6th in Hoffman

The Cook County Dept. of Public Health has announced it will holds its monthly immunization clinic on the first Monday of the month at Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, Hoffman Estates.

The clinic will be open from 1 to 3 p.m. starting Oct. 6 at the church, 930 W. Higgins Rd.

Children from infancy through 18 may receive their immunizations from the clinic free. No appointment is necessary, but persons with a history of allergies or neurological diseases will not be accepted.

Signed consent from the parent or legal guardian is required .The child's immunization record should be brought to the clinic.

For further information, call the North District office, 298-5800.

Army recruits available; but not for fighting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army is getting all the recruits it needs and they're smarter than in the past — but not enough of them want to fight or learn skills that aren't usable on the civilian job market.

Many recruits are after training that will carry over into a civilian job.

There is no trouble with numbers. The July 1975 recruiting figures, issued Friday, show the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines are getting 101 per cent of their recruiting needs.

Only 4 per cent came in with low IQ scores. A year ago, 18 per cent of the Army's recruits were in the low intelligence category and at the height of the Vietnam War it ran to 28 per cent.

AS HE LEFT the job of Army secretary in July, Howard Callaway said the economy helped improve the quality of the Army. "To have more people out there to pick from naturally makes it easier for us to get more quality."

The problem, spokesmen said, has been to get people who want to be trained for the fighting jobs — infantry and tanks — and the sophisticated electronics tasks that modern warfare demands.

Army Sec. Martin Hoffmann said Friday the Army was going to change its recruiting procedures so that jobs which could carry over into civilian life would be more carefully controlled.

Truck drivers are an example.

"We had a situation where young men — and women — would get out of the truck school and we wouldn't have jobs for them," one source said. "So they'd basically just sit around a base waiting for a job to open up, and you can imagine the disciplinary and other problems that result from that."

Hoffmann said the Army Recruiting Command will establish weekly objectives for each job.

Coast Guard's 'Eagle'

War prize trains sailors

by RICHARD SISK

ABOARD THE USCGC EAGLE (UPI) — Adolf Hitler commissioned her the "Horst Wessel" four decades ago, but today the majestic windjammer rides the seas as the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter "Eagle."

Capt. James R. Kelly, 45, of Scituate, Mass., skippers the Eagle — the only sailing ship in the United States, he says, that cannot fit under the Brooklyn Bridge. The Eagle's mainmast is 20 feet taller than the 130-foot high roadway of the bridge.

As the squarerigger eased into New York Harbor Friday, Kelly chuckled at the small flotilla of weekend sailors who pulled alongside to gawk at the Eagle when it appeared off lower Mahattan like a prop from an old Errol Flynn movie.

"We seem to attract a lot of attention wherever we go," Kelly said. "It's the romance of the ship."

THE 295-FOOT Eagle was in New York for an eight-day visit in a preview of "Operation Sail, '76." She will be host ship for the event which will bring 200 sailing vessels from 30 nations to New York for the Bicentennial celebration.

Hitler commissioned the white-hulled bark the "Horst Wessel" in 1936. It was built to train German midshipment. It has served the same purpose for cadets at the Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn., since 1946 when she was claimed as a war prize.

The cadets sleep in hammocks and confront the fear of going aloft in her maze of rigging above a rolling teakwood deck.

SEAMAN SCOTT BLACK, 19, of Salt Lake City, Utah, said furling and unfurling the Eagle's half-acre of sun bleached sail in a heavy sea is "something you never forget. One second you're laying on top of a yardarm and the next minute you're hanging on for dear life."

Chief Warrant Officer Richard "Red" Shannon, of Honolulu, a 22-year Coast Guard veteran, said "a lot of people think the Eagle is a floating anachronism, but her purpose is to train cadets.

"Sending them up in a heavy sea separates the men from the boys."

Immunization clinic Oct. 6th in Hoffman

The Cook County Dept. of Public Health has announced it will holds its monthly immunization clinic on the first Monday of the month at Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, Hoffman Estates.

The clinic will be open from 1 to 3 p.m. starting Oct. 6 at the church, 930 W. Higgins Rd.

Children from infancy through 18 may receive their immunizations from the clinic free. No appointment is necessary, but persons with a history of allergies or neurological diseases will not be accepted.

Signed consent from the parent or legal guardian is required .The child's immunization record should be brought to the clinic.

For further information, call tht North District office, 298-5800.

Howlett calls for 5-year license plates

Illinois Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett Tuesday called on the Illinois General Assembly to authorize five-year license plates for motor vehicles.

Howlett proposed the state issue aluminum plates to be used for five years, with renewal tags to be attached for each year. Such procedures have been used in a number of other states for several years.

Howlett said the aluminum plates, which would replace steel plates now in use, would cost about $6.6 million in the first year. Subsequently, however, the state would save about $21 million over a five-year period, Howlett said.

Illinois briefs

1,000 for Kerner fete?

Approximately 1,000 persons are expected to attend a testimonial dinner for former Gov. Otto Kerner in Springfield this evening.

Kerner was released from federal prison in March after being convicted in 1973 on charges of bribery related to assignment of racing dates to Illinois tracks during his tenure as governor from 1960 to 1968.

Guests at the dinner will pay $15 per plate, and an aide said proceeds will go to the Boys Club of Springfield.

Coal miners back to work

Nearly all striking mine workers in Illinois returned to their jobs Tuesday, virtually ending a series of wildcat strikes that started almost three weeks earlier.

Workers in Southern Illinois mines began walking off the job Aug. 13 in a dispute over shift rotations.

Officials of the United Mine Workers union appealed to their members to return to their jobs after Federal Judge Henry Wise of Danville levied fines of $10,000 per day against seven local unions for the unauthorized strike.

2 killed in sewer mishap

Two city workers died of sulphuric acid fumes while attempting to unplug a sewer in Sumner, in southeastern Illinois Tuesday.

The bodies of the two men were recovered about an hour and a half after they began trying to clear the sewer with the acid solution.

Lawrence County Deputy Coroner Steven Cunningham theorized that Robert Stevenson, 54, was overcome by the fumes, and that his coworker, Charles Harrison, 42, died in an attempt to pull him from the manhole in which he was stricken.

Indict 4 in car-truck crash

A McHenry County grand jury Tuesday indicted four young Harvard men in connecton with a triple-fatality traffic accident Aug. 17 which resulted when the men allegedly removed a stop sign from an intersection. No arraignment date has been set for the men: Gerald Powell, 20; his brother, Donald, 23; Charles Donner, 17, and Ralph Hennings, 20.

Sheila Cato, 32, and her husband's two children, Stuart and Cyd Cato, ages 13 and 14, were killed near Harvard when their car collided with a semi-trailer truck at the Ill. Rte. 23 and Streit Road. Mrs. Cato's husband, Sidney, was driving.

U.S. will help to cure recession in poor countries

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The recuperating American economy will allow the United States to help nurse poorer nations out of their own recessions by increasing trade with them, President Ford told the International Monetary Fund Tuesday.

"A strong economy is the best contribution this nation can make to another nation," Ford said in a seven-minute speech to a second-day session of the IMF's annual meeting.

Ford said the United States recognizes its "responsibility" to help poorer countries, but by itself cannot solve the world's economic problems. He said these nations must help themselves as much as possible.

"Economic independence is imperative," Ford said. "No country can expect the actions of others to solve its economic problems. We must consult together, we must pull together."

The 1,500 persons attending the IMF meeting applauded Ford before his speech, and after. They were finance ministers from 127 non-communist nations, in Washington for the IMF's 30th annual meeting.

Ford said the United states would "allow open trade and remove trade barriers that now exist . . . Our capital market will be kept open. The production of U.S. goods in short supply will be increased. Exports will increase."

About an hour after Ford spoke, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon gave three major U.S. policy proposals to stimulate world economic recovery:

- IMF financial aid to poor countries during periods of "sharp fluctuations in export earnings."
- More international capital for expansion in these countries.

Establishment of an IMF trust fund for countries with balance-of-payments problems.

Ford said the U.S. economy emerging from two-years of recession and inflation, but poorer countries are in the "uncomfortable and unavoidable circumstance" of having to wait for nations like America, West Germany and Japan — all wealthy but with problems of their own — to help them.

He said the U.S. proposals and "the critically important efforts of the developing nations to help themselves should form the building blocks for a better life for people all around the world."

Howlett calls for 5-year license plates

Illinois Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett Tuesday called on the Illinois General Assembly to authorize five-year license plates for motor vehicles.

Howlett proposed the state issue aluminum plates to be used for five years, with renewal tags to be attached for each year. Such procedures have been used in a number of other states for several years.

Howlett said the aluminum plates, which would replace steel plates now in use, would cost about $6.6 million in the first year. Subsequently, however, the state would save about $21 million over a five-year period, Howlett said.

1,000 for Kerner fete?

Approximately 1,000 persons are expected to attend a testimonial dinner for former Gov. Otto Kerner in Springfield this evening.

Kerner was released from federal prison in March after being convicted in 1973 on charges of bribery related to assignment of racing dates to Illinois tracks during his tenure as governor from 1960 to 1968.

Guests at the dinner will pay $15 per plate, and an aide said proceeds will go to the Boys Club of Springfield.

Some of that Indian jewelry is only a cheap imitation

by MONICA WILCH PERIN

One of the country's largest distributors of Indian jewelry estimates that as much as $7.5 million of the jewelry sold as authentic is actually cheap imitation.

The problem of fake Indian jewelry is threatening the livelihood of Indian craftsmen as well as cheating the American public, according to Jack A. Levin, chief executive of Pueblo Traders a leading wholesale buyer of Indian jewelry.

Two federal agencies are currently looking into the matter. The Interior Department, which is responsible for Indian affairs, is investigating 94 southern retail firms suspected of selling imitations as authentic American Indian jewelry. The Federal Trade Commission's Los Angeles office has also investigated the situation for possible action under federal law prohibiting fraud in interstate commerce.

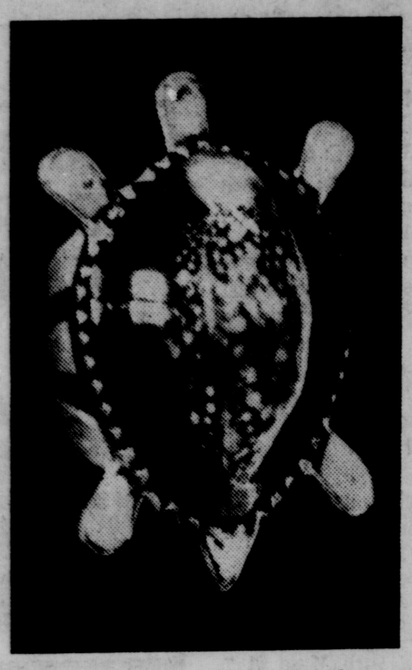
ELABORATE INDIAN necklaces sell for hundreds, even thousands, of dollars. Their high value is due to the materials — silver and turquoise — and the hand craftsmanship, the uniqueness of design and the limited availability of such authentic jewelry. Experts point out that all of the Indians in the country couldn't possibly have turned out the vast amount of so-called Indian jewelry being sold.

But non-handcrafted, non-Indian, non-silver imitations may also be priced at several hundred dollars, although worth only a fraction of that.

"A lot of imitation jewelry is made of stainless steel," according to Alfred Waters, cultural director for the American Indian Center in Chicago.

"REAL SILVER is never real shiny or white-looking," Waters said. He added that uniformity is another giveaway of imitation jewelry. "If the turquoise all matches, it's not Indian."

Still another tip-off is weight, according to Waters. "A real Navajo bracelet hurts your arm to put it on. It's thick and heavy. A lot of this jewelry is so thin — that's not Indian."



ZUNI INDIANS of the Southwest make jewelry with inlaid turquoise like this ring. Indian turquoise and silver are not polished.

But he pointed out that it is often difficult for the average person to distinguish between real and fake Indian jewelry.

One of the best protections, according to Levin, is for consumers to buy from an established, reputable jewelry or retailer "who is willing to show a certification of authenticity from his supplier and identify the jewelry on his signed receipt as 'authentic Indian'."

THIS ADVICE is echoed by Alfred Mitchell, owner of Mitchell's Jewelry in Arlington Heights. Mitchell handles a wide variety of Zuni jewelry, which he said is characterized by inlaid turquoise and needle-like craftsmanship.

Mitchell pointed out varying numbers of the petals on a squash blossom necklace as typical of the irregularity and variation in hand-made Indian jewelry. He describes it as "crude" compared to the finely finished, highly polished jewelry that is professionally produced. He said such jewelry may be real turquoise and silver, but not Indian.

Mitchell said a lot of turquoise comes from Egypt and Iran, but it is more perfect in coloration than Indian turquoise from the southwest, which usually has veins in it.

SOME SO-CALLED "Indian" jewelry on the market has even come from Japan, Mitchell said wryly.

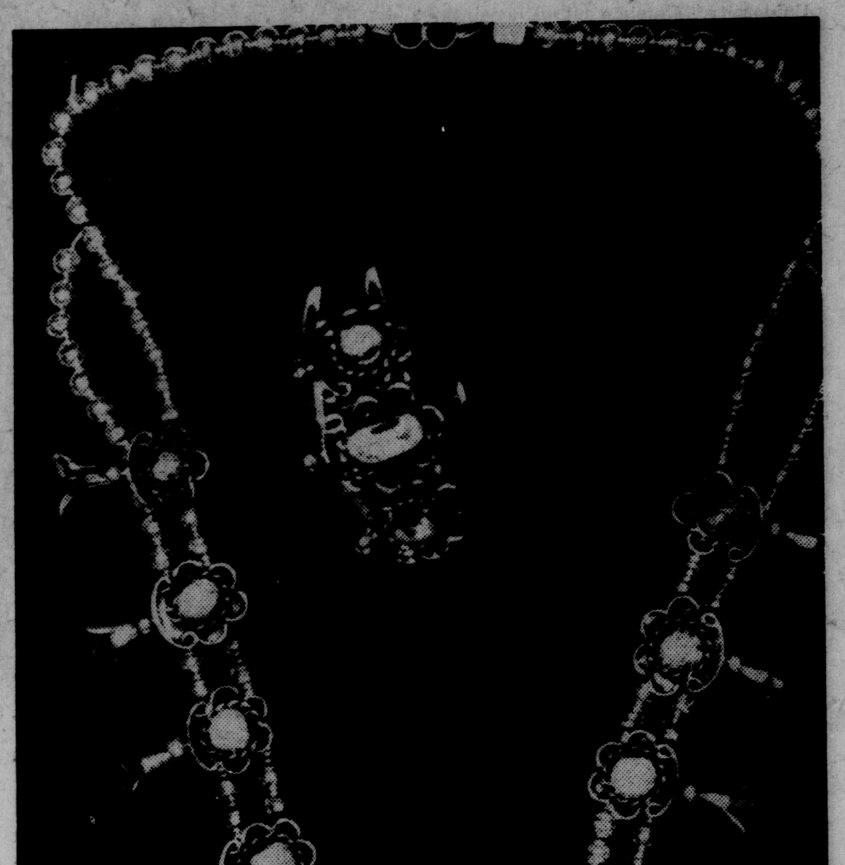
Authentic Indian jewelry is never stamped "sterling silver," according to both Mitchell and Levin. It may or may not have the signature or initial of the craftsman on it.

Indians still value their lifestyle of hunting, tending their fields and animals, and holding their religious ceremonials, all of which takes them away from their jewelry-making, Levin said. Thus, there probably will never be nearly enough authentic Indian jewelry to meet demand, a condition fertile for fraud and deception.

ANYONE IN THE Chicago area who has reason to believe a retailer is selling fake Indian jewelry as the real thing should contact the Federal Trade Commission (55 E. Monroe, Suite 1437, Chicago, Ill. 60603), says FTC regional director Jerome Lamet.

But Lamet said he believes any actual deception is most likely being carried on by wholesalers rather than retailers.

Waters said he guesses there is "quite a lot" of imitation Indian jewelry being sold in the Chicago area. Consumers should take the time to shop around at different retailers, ask questions, carefully examine the jewelry, and compare its appearance and feel. Even if you do not run across any fakery, there is wide and fascinating variety of design in Indian jewelry, as well as variation in quality.



THIS HANDMADE Navajo necklace retails for close to $700. Arlington Heights jeweler Alfred Mitchell points out that the number of petals on the flowers varies from three to six, a typical hallmark of authentic Indian craftsmanship.

FASHIONS FRESH off Maxine's Clothesline will be featured Monday when Lions Ladies of Elk Grove Village stage "The Great Put On." A dinner affair at the Diplomat West, Elmhurst, the show will also feature menswear from Red Squire. Both shops are in Hoffman Estates. Gene Michaels, left, is a model; Jerrie Guendling, the chairman. She may be called at 437-0386 for tickets and reservations.

When talk is cheap

by KAY MARSH

A recent publication from Northern Illinois University notes that the average dormitory student there paid $72 during the last school year for long distance calls. It went on to note that October and November were the biggest months for long distance calls by students.

So talk isn't cheap, if you have to do it by long distance. In fact, most of us would admit that long distance calls figure significantly in the family budget, especially if we have a youngster off at college.

A ten-cent stamp still buys a lot of communication. But most of us would agree that long distance calls are worth the cost. How do the ads put it — they're the next best thing to being there?

AND YOU CAN ENJOY that "next best thing" at lower costs if you remember two main rules: dial direct, and take advantage of the lowest rates.

Dialing direct saves you money. Even if the person you're calling isn't there, the difference in rates is so great that you can afford to gamble and still come out ahead, even if you do miss out now and then. So think twice — or three or four times — before you call somebody person-to-person.

Involving operators in your call always raises your costs. So, if you can possibly avoid it, don't call person-to-person; don't call collect; don't charge the call to another phone. Dial it yourself, and save.

But, you ask, how can we dial direct when our college student has no phone in his dorm room?

ARRANGE AHEAD of time to call at a certain time on a certain date, and have your student stand by the phone at the appointed time. Yes, it's a little bit of trouble, but the savings are worth it.

When you call is just as important as how you call.

I'm ashamed to tell you that, when our No. 1 child went off to college, we called her for months on Sunday nights.

What's wrong with Sunday night? Nothing. But it costs you about a third less to call on Saturday.

Your best buy is to call any night between 11 p.m. and 8 a.m., any time Saturday, or any time Sunday except between 5 and 11 p.m. According to the chart taped in my phone book, the one-minute dial-direct rate then for a coast-to-coast call is only 22 cents or less, with additional minutes at 16 cents each or less.

NEXT BEST IS the evening rate in effect Sunday through Friday for calls you dial between 5 and 11 p.m. Then you pay 36 cents or less for one-minute, and 26 cents or less for additional minutes.

The weekday rate is considerably higher: 56 cents or less for the first minute and 40 cents or less for each additional minute, when you dial Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Remember, all these rates, as noted, are for direct-dial calls coast-to-coast. Both the first minute and the additional minutes will cost you less for shorter distances.

YOU CAN OFTEN use time zone differences to make the lower rates work most effectively for you, since the time where you place the call is the one that determines your rate.

Assume, for instance, that you have a student in Boston who doesn't like to get up very early. You can call just before 8 a.m. Chicago time, and it will be almost 9 a.m. there.

Or let's say your student is in California and sometimes goes to bed early. You can dial after 11 p.m. Chicago time, and run no risk of waking up anybody. Or, if your student has a phone and can dial direct, he can dial after 11 p.m. there, and still find it early enough here that the old folks

Parent has a right to child's earnings

by JULIE MARTOCCIO

Dear Attorney Martoccio,

I wonder if you could settle an argument for me? Don't teenagers have any rights? I'm 16, but the way my parents treat me you'd think I was still in grammar school.

I've been working all summer and plan to continue to work after school so I can buy a car. At first my parents went along with the idea, but then when I started to date someone they didn't like, they said I had to give them what I earned. My mother is worse than my father. She goes all over the neighborhood talking about the boy I'm dating and she calls him a "bum."

I'll admit that he went around with some bad kids and got into trouble, but he's straightening out now; still my mother says if I don't stop seeing him, she's going to the police. Please tell me two things. Can she do what she's threatening? Are my parents entitled to my money, legally that is? Thank you.—T.N.

Dear T.N.

Since every person may be placed in some particular category (when you stop to think about it), each of us has some complaints about our own particular legal rights.

Women are fighting for equality. Husbands feel that they're being ripped off in alimony and support cases. Singles living by themselves argue against Homestead Exemption laws which they say do not include them. Married couples insist that the tax law punishes them, discourages marriage and favors singles.

I COULD USE up a few more paragraphs pointing out the gripes, but this should be enough to let you know that you are not standing alone. Actually, as you get older, you'll find yourself swapping one set of gripes for another. All any of us can hope for is that the law keeps on trying to adjust the inequities.

The temper of the times is bringing about new attitudes dealing with children's rights. One is that children who live apart from their parents may be treated as adults if they can support themselves and in general behave in a mature manner.

But when a child lives at home with parents who are supporting her, the responsibility remains with the parent to provide shelter, food and clothing until that child reaches legal age. The father has the primary obligation (which the mother assumes if and when he dies), and must provide in accordance with his financial position or to the best of his ability.

PARENTS MUST see to it that their child receives an adequate education as provided by law. Some recent court decisions have gone as far as to order a father to pay for his child's college education because he was financially well off.

By contrast, the parent-child relationship is hardly a two-way system. Children may, in some states, be compelled to support parents, but usually only if they are indigent. And in those states where the law is on the statute books, it is rarely, if ever, enforced. One reason is that, in general, courts shy away from domestic affairs. It is too difficult, under most circumstances, to drag children and parents into court and with the federal welfare program it is no longer feasible.

On the other hand, a parent who refuses to support a child or otherwise neglects him may be subject to criminal prosecution.

YES, LEGALLY your parents are entitled to all of your earnings. (This, however, does not include inheritances.) The law reasons that the child's earnings can in some measure compensate the parents for their years of care and attention and the money that has been xpended until the child reaches legal age.

The law goes pretty far in permitting parents to express their dislike for the person their child is dating. Dating is another matter. Only under certain conditions and circumstances will the law interfere. If the boy has a record, continues to get into trouble, and if it appears that you may be influenced or harmed by dating him, then your parents have a right to seek legal remedies.

Wouldn't it be better, in the long run, to sit down with your parents and discuss the matter rather than trying to argue "legal rights?" Up to this point your relationship with them has been smooth. A good sign, I'd say for reestablishing rapport.

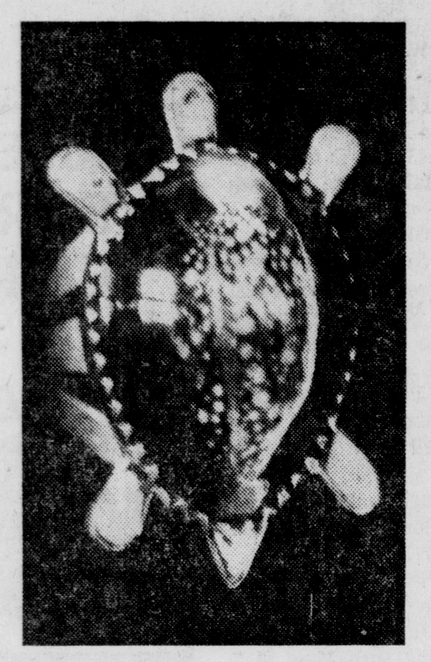
"A lot of imitation jewelry is made of stainless steel," according to Alfred Waters, cultural director for the American Indian Center in Chicago.

"REAL SILVER is never real shiny or white-looking," Waters said. He added that uniformity is another giveaway of imitation jewelry. "If the turquoise all matches, it's not Indian."

Still another tip-off is weight, according to Waters. "A real Navajo bracelet hurts your arm to put it on. It's thick and heavy. A lot of this jewelry is so thin — that's not Indian."



ZUNI INDIANS of the Southwest make jewelry with inlaid turquoise like this ring. Indian turquoise and silver are not polished.

But he pointed out that it is often difficult for the average person to distinguish between real and fake Indian jewelry.

One of the best protections, according to Levin, is for consumers to buy from an established, reputable jewelry or retailer "who is willing to show a certification of authenticity from his supplier and identify the jewelry on his signed receipt as 'authentic Indian'."

THIS ADVICE is echoed by Alfred Mitchell, owner of Mitchell's Jewelry in Arlington Heights. Mitchell handles a wide variety of Zuni jewelry, which he said is characterized by inlaid turquoise and needle-like craftsmanship.

Mitchell pointed out varying numbers of the petals on a squash blossom necklace as typical of the irregularity and variation in hand-made Indian jewelry. He describes it as "crude" compared to the finely finished, highly polished jewelry that is professionally produced. He said such jewelry may be real turquoise and silver, but not Indian.

Mitchell said a lot of turquoise comes from Egypt and Iran, but it is more perfect in coloration than Indian turquoise from the southwest, which usually has veins in it.

SOME SO-CALLED "Indian" jewelry on the market has even come from Japan, Mitchell said wryly.

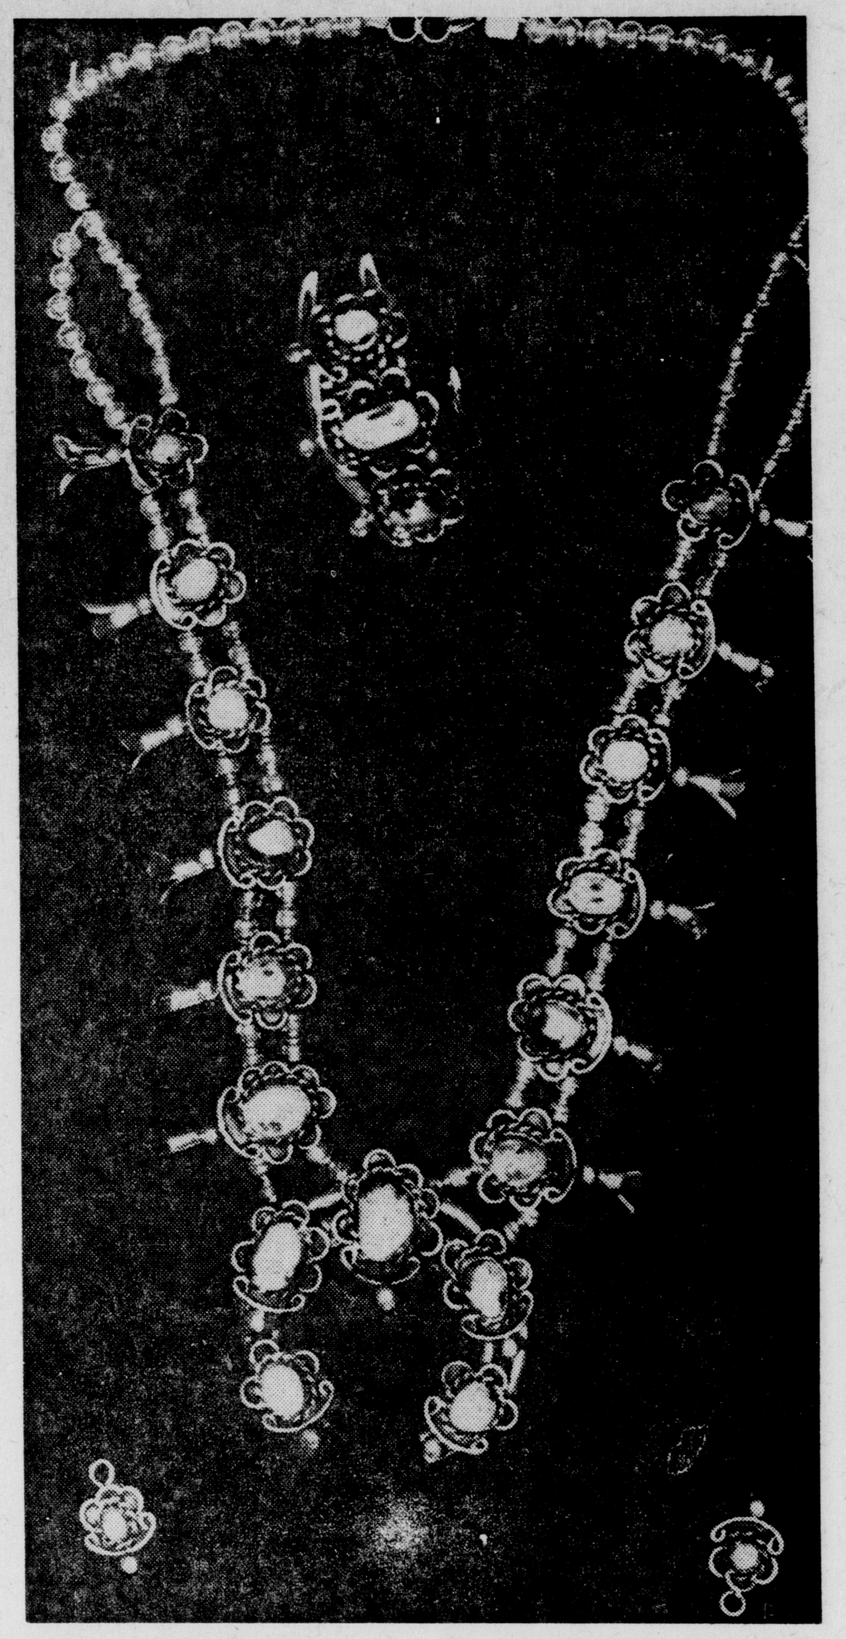
Authentic Indian jewelry is never stamped "sterling silver," according to both Mitchell and Levin. It may or may not have the signature or initial of the craftsman on it.

Indians still value their lifestyle of hunting, tending their fields and animals, and holding their religious ceremonials, all of which takes them away from their jewelry-making, Levin said. Thus, there probably will never be nearly enough authentic Indian jewelry to meet demand, a condition fertile for fraud and deception.

ANYONE IN THE Chicago area who has reason to believe a retailer is selling fake Indian jewelry as the real thing should contact the Federal Trade Commission (55 E. Monroe, Suite 1437, Chicago, Ill. 60603), says FTC regional director Jerome Lamet.

But Lamet said he believes any actual deception is most likely being carried on by wholesalers rather than retailers.

Waters said he guesses there is "quite a lot" of imitation Indian jewelry being sold in the Chicago area. Consumers should take the time to shop around at different retailers, ask questions, carefully examine the jewelry, and compare its appearance and feel. Even if you do not run across any fakery, there is wide and fascinating variety of design in Indian jewelry, as well as variation in quality.



THIS HANDMADE Navajo necklace retails for close to $700. Arlington Heights jeweler Alfred Mitchell points out that the number of petals on the flowers varies from three to six, a typical hallmark of authentic Indian craftsmanship.

FASHIONS FRESH off Maxine's Clothesline will be featured Monday when Lions Ladies of Elk Grove Village stage "The Great Put On." A dinner affair at the Diplomat West, Elmhurst, the show will also feature menswear from Red Squire. Both shops are in Hoffman Estates. Gene Michaels, left, is a model; Jerrie Guendling, the chairman. She may be called at 437-0386 for tickets and reservations.

When talk is cheap

by KAY MARSH

A recent publication from Northern Illinois University notes that the average dormitory student there paid $72 during the last school year for long distance calls. It went on to note that October and November were the biggest months for long distance calls by students.

So talk isn't cheap, if you have to do it by long distance. In fact, most of us would admit that long distance calls figure significantly in the family budget, especially if we have a youngster off at college.

A ten-cent stamp still buys a lot of communication. But most of us would agree that long distance calls are worth the cost. How do the ads put it — they're the next best thing to being there?

AND YOU CAN ENJOY that "next best thing" at lower costs if you remember two main rules: dial direct, and take advantage of the lowest rates.

Dialing direct saves you money. Even if the person you're calling isn't there, the difference in rates is so great that you can afford to gamble and still come out ahead, even if you do miss out now and then. So think twice — or three or four times — before you call somebody person-to-person.

Involving operators in your call always raises your costs. So, if you can possibly avoid it, don't call person-to-person; don't call collect; don't charge the call to another phone. Dial it yourself, and save.

But, you ask, how can we dial direct when our college student has no phone in his dorm room?

ARRANGE AHEAD of time to call at a certain time on a certain date, and have your student stand by the phone at the appointed time. Yes, it's a little bit of trouble, but the savings are worth it.

When you call is just as important as how you call.

I'm ashamed to tell you that, when our No. 1 child went off to college, we called her for months on Sunday nights.

What's wrong with Sunday night? Nothing. But it costs you about a third less to call on Saturday.

Your best buy is to call any night between 11 p.m. and 8 a.m., any time Saturday, or any time Sunday except between 5 and 11 p.m. According to the chart taped in my phone book, the one-minute dial-direct rate then for a coast-to-coast call is only 22 cents or less, with additional minutes at 16 cents each or less.

NEXT BEST IS the evening rate in effect Sunday through Friday for calls you dial between 5 and 11 p.m. Then you pay 36 cents or less for one-minute, and 26 cents or less for additional minutes.

The weekday rate is considerably higher: 56 cents or less for the first minute and 40 cents or less for each additional minute, when you dial Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Remember, all these rates, as noted, are for direct-dial calls coast-to-coast. Both the first minute and the additional minutes will cost you less for shorter distances.

YOU CAN OFTEN use time zone differences to make the lower rates work most effectively for you, since the time where you place the call is the one that determines your rate.

Assume, for instance, that you have a student in Boston who doesn't like to get up very early. You can call just before 8 a.m. Chicago time, and it will be almost 9 a.m. there.

Or let's say your student is in California and sometimes goes to bed early. You can dial after 11 p.m. Chicago time, and run no risk of waking up anybody. Or, if your student has a phone and can dial direct, he can dial after 11 p.m. there, and still find it early enough here that the old folks

Parent has a right to child's earnings

by JULIE MARTOCCIO

Dear Attorney Martoccio,

I wonder if you could settle an argument for me? Don't teenagers have any rights? I'm 16, but the way my parents treat me you'd think I was still in grammar school.

I've been working all summer and plan to continue to work after school so I can buy a car. At first my parents went along with the idea, but then when I started to date someone they didn't like, they said I had to give them what I earned. My mother is worse than my father. She goes all over the neighborhood talking about the boy I'm dating and she calls him a "bum."

I'll admit that he went around with some bad kids and got into trouble, but he's straightening out now; still my mother says if I don't stop seeing him, she's going to the police. Please tell me two things. Can she do what she's threatening? Are my parents entitled to my money, legally that is? Thank you.—T.N.

Dear T.N.

Since every person may be placed in some particular category (when you stop to think about it), each of us has some complaints about our own particular legal rights.

Women are fighting for equality. Husbands feel that they're being ripped off in alimony and support cases. Singles living by themselves argue against Homestead Exemption laws which they say do not include them. Married couples insist that the tax law punishes them, discourages marriage and favors singles.

I COULD USE up a few more paragraphs pointing out the gripes, but this should be enough to let you know that you are not standing alone. Actually, as you get older, you'll find yourself swapping one set of gripes for another. All any of us can hope for is that the law keeps on trying to adjust the inequities.

The temper of the times is bringing about new attitudes dealing with children's rights. One is that children who live apart from their parents may be treated as adults if they can support themselves and in general behave in a mature manner.

But when a child lives at home with parents who are supporting her, the responsibility remains with the parent to provide shelter, food and clothing until that child reaches legal age. The father has the primary obligation (which the mother assumes if and when he dies), and must provide in accordance with his financial position or to the best of his ability.

PARENTS MUST see to it that their child receives an adequate education as provided by law. Some recent court decisions have gone as far as to order a father to pay for his child's college education because he was financially well off.

By contrast, the parent-child relationship is hardly a two-way system. Children may, in some states, be compelled to support parents, but usually only if they are indigent. And in those states where the law is on the statute books, it is rarely, if ever, enforced. One reason is that, in general, courts shy away from domestic affairs. It is too difficult, under most circumstances, to drag children and parents into court and with the federal welfare program it is no longer feasible.

On the other hand, a parent who refuses to support a child or otherwise neglects him may be subject to criminal prosecution.

YES, LEGALLY your parents are entitled to all of your earnings. (This, however, does not include inheritances.) The law reasons that the child's earnings can in some measure compensate the parents for their years of care and attention and the money that has been xpended until the child reaches legal age.

The law goes pretty far in permitting parents to express their dislike for the person their child is dating. Dating is another matter. Only under certain conditions and circumstances will the law interfere. If the boy has a record, continues to get into trouble, and if it appears that you may be influenced or harmed by dating him, then your parents have a right to seek legal remedies.

Wouldn't it be better, in the long run, to sit down with your parents and discuss the matter rather than trying to argue "legal rights?" Up to this point your relationship with them has been smooth. A good sign, I'd say for reestablishing rapport.

Attorney Martoccio's column is to inform and not advise. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280 Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

DePaul law students wed

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart D. Cohen

Two senior law students at DePaul University, Patricia B. Rogozinski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rogozinski, Mount Prospect, and Stuart D. Cohen, were married Aug. 10. Stuart is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cohen, Chicago.

The afternoon double ring ceremony took place at the Itasca Country Club and featured an ivory, melon and yellow color scheme.

Patricia chose an ivory gown and long veil trimmed in lace. She carried a bouquet of Lillies of the Valley.

Her sister, Diane, was maid of honor, and Maryann Sopata, her cousin, and Robin Cohen, the groom's sister, both from Chicago, were bridesmaids. They wore long, melon-colored gowns and held bouquets of roses and baby's breath.

FLOWER GIRLS for their sister's wedding were Katherine, 5, and Constance, 7. They wore ivory dresses trimmed with melon-colored ribbons and carried baskets filled with roses and baby's breath.

The groom's brother from Chicago, Jay, served as best man. Also assisting the groom was his cousin, Murray Cohen from North Carolina, and Allen Breitowich, Chicago.

A reception at the country club for 150 guests followed. The couple then left for a three-week trip in Canada.

Patricia is a '69 graduate of Sacred Heart of Mary High School and a '73 graduate of Georgetown University, Washington, D. C. Stuart is a graduate of Northern Illinois University and worked as an accountant before entering law school. Both will graduate from DePaul in January.

Mr. and Mrs. Terrance Schmelzer

Couple met at college

Murray State University, Ky., is where Gail Ellen Guilfoil met Terrance E. Schmelzer. They were married Aug. 10 in Our Lady of the Wayside Church.

Gail is the daughter of the John Guilfoils of Arlington Heights, and Terrance is the son of the Edward Schmelzers of Belmont, N.Y.

For the 3:30 ceremony the bride wore a gown of silk organza over sata peau with mandarin neckline and cap sleeves. A Camelot headpiece of Venise lace held her tiered elbow-length veil, and she carried a nosegay of daisies, white carnations and yellow roses.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Colleen, and bridesmaids were Maureen Long and Sue Lasher of Arlington Heights. They wore gowns of yellow flowered chiffon and floral headpieces and carried bouquets of miniature orange carnations, daisies and baby's breath.

BEST MAN was Timothy Schmelzer, brother of the groom, and ushers were Duane Lowery of Murray, Ky., and the bride's brothers, Jack, Patrick and Timothy.

After a reception in Villa Olivia Country Club, the couple left for New Madrid, Mo., where they are both teaching. The bride, a graduate of Arlington High School and Murray State University, teaches special education, and the groom, also a graduate of Murray, teaches English.

Mom's birthday their wedding day

Laura Foropoulos and Gregory A. Sever chose his mother's birthdate, Aug. 9, for their wedding. Laura, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Foropoulos of Rolling Meadows, and Greg, son of Mrs. Donna Sever of Rolling Meadows and Harry Sever of Chicago, were married at 3:30 on that day in St. Colette Church, Rolling Meadows.

The bride wore a silk organza gown appliqued with lace and pearls. A lace cap held her fingertip veil, and she carried a cascade of white stephanotis, phalaenopsis, roses and ivy.

Maid of honor was Kim Kirkpatrick of Niles, wearing a blue jersey halter dress with chiffon cape. Her flowers were lavender and blue carnations and white roses.

BRIDESMAIDS AMY Foropoulos, sister of the bride; Carol Marszalek of Rolling Meadows; and Karen Jones of Mount Prospect all wore lavender dresses matching the maid of honor.

Attending the groom were Chuck Schering of Palatine, best man; and ushers David Sever, his brother; Glenn Fury of West Dundee, a cousin; and Bill Wihr of Palatine.

A dinner reception and dancing were held at Lander's Chalet in Elk Grove Village, after which the couple went to the Wisconsin Dells for three days. They plan a delayed honeymoon in Acapulco in October.

The bride is a graduate of Rolling Meadow High School and Arlington Academy of Beauty Culture. She is employed as a hair stylist at Aloha Beauty Salon in Rolling Meadows.

The groom, a graduate of Palatine High School, attended Harper College and is manager of Mount Prospect Auto Parts. The pair is residing in Palatine.

Traditional Russian rite

A Sunday school meeting led to a traditional Russian orthodox wedding, complete with Russian wedding bread, for Diane Susan Miskavetz of Mount Prospect and Michael Andrew Lovda of Chicago. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Miskovetz and Michael is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lovda.

Their afternoon marriage took place Aug. 9 at St. George Orthodox Cathedral in Chicago.

For the double ring ceremony Diane chose a traditional ivory organza gown trimmed in Spanish lace. Matching lace also accented her fingertip mantilla veil. She carried a bouquet of philonapsis, white roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

HER SISTERS, Nadine and Patti, were Diane's maids of honor and Adrian Ustich and Linda Novek, both of Chicago, and Christine Capp, Los Angeles, Calif., were bridesmaids.

Diane's 9-year-old sister, Janice, was flower girl, carrying out a color scheme of goldenrod yellow and cornflower blue, they all wore gowns of yellow and carried arrangements of white daisies, yellow roses and gold miniature mums accented with blue cornflowers.

Serving as Michael's best men were his brother John, and Tony Kobrinetz, both from Chicago. His other attendants were Steve Miskavetz, Diane's brother from Mount Prospect; Reed Notekvy, Chicago; and Michael Stonish, Elmhurst. Eleven-year-old Andrew Cook, a cousin of the bride from Chicago, was ring bearer.

A COCKTAIL AND dinner reception for 340 guests followed at Mr. Allegreti's in Rosemont. The traditional wedding bread had been baked by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Anastasia Miskavetz and a friend. The couple then left for a honeymoon in New England.

Diane, a graduate of Forest View High School and Carthage College, Kenosha, Wis., teaches third grade in Wheeling. Michael, who attended Carrol College in Waukesha, Wis., is now a fourth year dental student at the University of Illinois.

They will be making their home in Chicago.

No. 75 Co 675

PETITION AND ORDINANCE REQUESTING REFERENDUM ON QUESTION OF ANNEXING CERTAIN TERRITORY TO THE PALATINE PUBLIC LIBRARY DISTRICT

The Palatine Public Library District, a municipal corporation, by its attorneys, Ross, Hardies, O'Keefe, Babcock & Parsons, petitions this Honorable Court to submit the question of annexation of certain contiguous territory, hereinafter more fully described, not included within the Palatine Public Library District to the voters of said territory and the voters within the Palatine Public Library District. In support of the said petition, the Public Library District represents to the Court as follows:

1. On August 13, 1975, the Board of Library Trustees of the Palatine Public Library District adopted and approved Ordinance No. 00-10-75, entitled, "An Ordinance Requesting Annexation of Certain Territory to the Palatine Public Library District," a true and correct copy of which said Ordinance is attached hereto as Exhibit A to this petition and made a part hereof by this reference.

2. A map of the territory described in the aforesaid Ordinance No. 00-10-75 is attached hereto as Exhibit B to this petition and is made a part hereof by this reference.

3. The legal description of the territory proposed to be annexed to the Palatine Public Library District is more fully set out in Exhibit C attached hereto and made a part hereof by this reference.

4. The territory described in the said Ordinance No. 00-10-75 is not within the corporate limits of any public library district or within the corporate limits of any incorporated municipality that operates and maintains a local public library.

5. The territory described in the said Ordinance No. 00-10-75 is contiguous to the corporate limits of the Palatine Public Library District, Palatine, Illinois.

6. The Palatine Public Library District requests the annexation of the said territory described in Ordinance No. 00-10-75 to the Palatine Public Library District and also requests that the Judge of the Circuit Court of Cook County submit the question of the annexation of the aforesaid territory to the voters of the said territory and the voters within the Palatine Public Library District.

7. The Palatine Public Library District further requests that the Judge of the Circuit Court of Cook County enter an order fixing the date and the time for the hearing upon the said Ordinance.

Invitation To Bid

BOARD OF LIBRARY TRUSTEES OF THE PALATINE PUBLIC LIBRARY DISTRICT PALATINE, ILLINOIS — LIBRARY EQUIPMENT FOR NEW PUBLIC LIBRARY

The Board of Library Trustees of the Palatine Public Library District, Illinois, will receive sealed proposals for library equipment for the new Palatine Public Library at 500 North Benton Street, Village of Palatine, Illinois, until 5:00 p.m. Central Daylight Time, on the 5th day of September, 1975, at the office of the Library Trustees at the Palatine Public Library, 149 North Brockway, Palatine, Illinois.

All proposals received will be publicly opened and read aloud at the office of the Palatine Public Library at 5:00 p.m., Central Daylight Time, on September 5, 1975. The bidding documents, including instructions to bidders, general conditions of contract and detailed specifications and proposal forms are on file and available for inspection in the office of the Palatine Public Library District, 149 North Brockway, Palatine, Ill.

A certified check or cashier's check drawn on a solvent bank in the State of Illinois, payable without condition to the Board of Library Trustees of the Palatine Public Library, Palatine, Illinois, or a bidder's bond in a form satisfactory to the said Board in an amount not less than five per cent (5%) of the bid shall be submitted with each proposal.

No bid shall be withdrawn after the opening of proposals without the consent of the Board of Library Trustees for a period of thirty (30) days after the scheduled time for closing of bids.

Bidders may submit proposals for one, more than one, or all sections of the detailed specifications. A contract will be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder each section of the detailed specifications and not to the lowest responsible bideer upon the aggregate of all proposals, unless by accepting the combined proposal of one contractor for more than one or for all the sections, the net cost to the owner will be less than by accepting the lowest responsible bid for each of the sections.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive any informalities or irregularities in the bidding. The Board further reserves the right to refuse any and all bids and to make a contract award at any time within thirty (30) days after such bids have been opened and publicly read.

The successful bidders will be required to furnish a satisfactory performance bond in the full amount of the contract and a labor and materials bond.

The successful bidders will be required to comply with all applicable federal regulations and executive orders pursuant to the Davis-Bacon Act and the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and with all other applicable federal, state and municipal statutes, ordinances; rules, regulations, and executive orders.

No. 75 Co 675

PETITION AND ORDINANCE REQUESTING REFERENDUM ON QUESTION OF ANNEXING CERTAIN TERRITORY TO THE PALATINE PUBLIC LIBRARY DISTRICT

The Palatine Public Library District, a municipal corporation, by its attorneys, Ross, Hardies, O'Keefe, Babcock & Parsons, petitions this Honorable Court to submit the question of annexation of certain contiguous territory, hereinafter more fully described, not included within the Palatine Public Library District to the voters of said territory and the voters within the Palatine Public Library District. In support of the said petition, the Public Library District represents to the Court as follows:

1. On August 13, 1975, the Board of Library Trustees of the Palatine Public Library District adopted and approved Ordinance No. 00-10-75, entitled, "An Ordinance Requesting Annexation of Certain Territory to the Palatine Public Library District," a true and correct copy of which said Ordinance is attached hereto as Exhibit A to this petition and made a part hereof by this reference.

2. A map of the territory described in the aforesaid Ordinance No. 00-10-75 is attached hereto as Exhibit B to this petition and is made a part hereof by this reference.

3. The legal description of the territory proposed to be annexed to the Palatine Public Library District is more fully set out in Exhibit C attached hereto and made a part hereof by this reference.

4. The territory described in the said Ordinance No. 00-10-75 is not within the corporate limits of any public library district or within the corporate limits of any incorporated municipality that operates and maintains a local public library.

5. The territory described in the said Ordinance No. 00-10-75 is contiguous to the corporate limits of the Palatine Public Library District, Palatine, Illinois.

6. The Palatine Public Library District requests the annexation of the said territory described in Ordinance No. 00-10-75 to the Palatine Public Library District and also requests that the Judge of the Circuit Court of Cook County submit the question of the annexation of the aforesaid territory to the voters of the said territory and the voters within the Palatine Public Library District.

7. The Palatine Public Library District further requests that the Judge of the Circuit Court of Cook County enter an order fixing the date and the time for the hearing upon the said Ordinance.

Invitation To Bid

BOARD OF LIBRARY TRUSTEES OF THE PALATINE PUBLIC LIBRARY DISTRICT PALATINE, ILLINOIS — LIBRARY EQUIPMENT FOR NEW PUBLIC LIBRARY

The Board of Library Trustees of the Palatine Public Library District, Illinois, will receive sealed proposals for library equipment for the new Palatine Public Library at 500 North Benton Street, Village of Palatine, Illinois, until 5:00 p.m. Central Daylight Time, on the 5th day of September, 1975, at the office of the Library Trustees at the Palatine Public Library, 149 North Brockway, Palatine, Illinois.

All proposals received will be publicly opened and read aloud at the office of the Palatine Public Library at 5:00 p.m., Central Daylight Time, on September 5, 1975. The bidding documents, including instructions to bidders, general conditions of contract and detailed specifications and proposal forms are on file and available for inspection in the office of the Palatine Public Library District, 149 North Brockway, Palatine, Ill.

A certified check or cashier's check drawn on a solvent bank in the State of Illinois, payable without condition to the Board of Library Trustees of the Palatine Public Library, Palatine, Illinois, or a bidder's bond in a form satisfactory to the said Board in an amount not less than five per cent (5%) of the bid shall be submitted with each proposal.

No bid shall be withdrawn after the opening of proposals without the consent of the Board of Library Trustees for a period of thirty (30) days after the scheduled time for closing of bids.

Bidders may submit proposals for one, more than one, or all sections of the detailed specifications. A contract will be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder each section of the detailed specifications and not to the lowest responsible bideer upon the aggregate of all proposals, unless by accepting the combined proposal of one contractor for more than one or for all the sections, the net cost to the owner will be less than by accepting the lowest responsible bid for each of the sections.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive any informalities or irregularities in the bidding. The Board further reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to make a contract award at any time within thirty (30) days after such bids have been opened and publicly read.

The successful bidders will be required to furnish a satisfactory performance bond in the full amount of the contract and a labor and materials bond.

The successful bidders will be required to comply with all applicable federal regulations and executive orders pursuant to the Davis-Bacon Act and the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and with all other applicable federal, state and municipal statutes, ordinances; rules, regulations, and executive orders.
